COLONEL ROOSEVELT HOLDS COUNCIL WITH HIS CHIEFS

Preparing Organization to Press the Nomination Campaign---Stubbs Says Taft Will Withdraw.

London, March 1.—Premier Asquith today invited the miners' executive committee to meet the coal owners, but the men declined, saying they had nothing to discuss. They had, they said, placed their schedule of minimum rates on the table and they would maintain that position until otherwise instructed by the miners.

STATUS OF THE STRIKE.

New York, March 1.—Col. Roosevelt came in from Oyster Bay today to his office for further conferences with the political leaders engaged in furthering plans for his presidential nomination.

The announcement of the selection of an executive committee with United States Senator Joe M. Dixon, of Montana, as chairman was expected today to be followed by the announcement of names of an administrative committee to be formed with Truman H. Newberry, of Detroit, ex-secretary of the navy, as chairman.

Alexander H. Revell, of Chicago, chairman of the national Roosevelt committee, says that Senator Dixon is to have sole charge of the political matters of the campaign while Mr. Newberry and the administrative committee will look after the business and financial end. Senator Dixon will make his headquarters at Washington, where, it is said, a general Roosevelt committee will be formed next week.

Gov. Stubbs called on Col. Roosevelt today to talk over the campaign. The governor again declared that President Taft's name would not be presented at the Chicago convention. He said he intended to take the stump for Col. Roosevelt.

CHICAGO INSURGENTS MEETING.

Chicago, March 1.—Governor Hiram W. Johnson, of California, and Gifford Pinchot, formerly chief forester, were scheduled to address an insurgent meeting here today. The gathering was to be held at a downtown hotel and a general invitation to all was extended.

Both Governor Johnson and Mr. Pinchot were expected to say something about the candidacy of Roosevelt. They also were scheduled to indorse insurgent candidates for state offices.

The plan was for Governor Johnson and Mr. Pinchot to leave here for Danville, Ill., in company with Hugh Magill and Walter Clyde Jones, after the local meeting, and address an insurgent gathering there tonight.

HORRIBLE TALE OF ATROCITY IN CHINA

American Missionaries and Their Families, Including Small Children, Are Shockingly Butchered.

San Francisco, Cal., March 1.—Bringing the first word of the massacre of eight persons connected with Christian missions by fanatical Chinese outlaws last October, twenty-four mission workers arrived yesterday on the liner China from the province of Shensi, in central China.

The victims of the slaughter were George Alstrand, 13 years old; Mrs. Richard Beckman, Zelma Beckman, 12; Ruth Beckman, 8; Hulda Bergstrom, 13; Oscar Bergstrom, Hilda Nelson, 15; George Vantne, teacher at a mission school at Sian Fu.

The story of the massacre was told by Rev. Philip Nelson, father of Hilda Nelson, of the Scandinavian Alliance mission at Pin Chow, who, with his wife and their five children, were passengers on the China.

A Remarkable Escape.

In recounting the outrages of the Chinese, Mr. Nelson dwelt on the remarkable escape of Richard Beckman, who, after seeing his wife and daughter clubbed to death, waded into a lake with his three year old daughter in his arms, and in the darkness escaped.

"There were abouty forty persons associated with the Scandinavian mission stationed in Pin Chow at the time of the massacre," said Mr. Nelson.

"We had heard nothing but the vaguest rumors of the revolution until Oct. 21, when news of the revolution reacher Sian Fu and the marauders responsible for the massacre started on their career of murder and pillage.

"The mission was one of the first places looted. The gates were stormed at 1 o'clock in the morning and the Chinese surrounded the house before the inmates had time to flee over a ladder placed for such an emergency at the rear wall. The house was barricaded and the bandits went on their way, after setting fire to the outer walls.

Returned and Killed Inmates.

"The women and children then hid in an outbuilding while Beckman, with his little daughter, sought refuge in the shrubbery. Two marauders returned, kicked in the door of the outbuilding and killed all those who had hidden there, either clubbing them down in the doorway, or beating them to death after a short pursuit. Beckman helped his daughter Zelma and Vantne over a wall, but they soon were caught.

"From a conversation he overheard, Beckman learned that he and his baby daughter were the only ones left alive, and beaters soon commenced to work through the bushes in search of him.

"To escape them he waded into a sallow pond. He heard commands given that the pond be guarded until daylight, except for the north bank, which was too steep to be climbed. Realizing that his only hope lay in that direction, Beckman worked his way there and managed to place the baby on top of the bank. Before he could climb up beside her, however, the little one began to cry, and he had to take her down and quiet her.

Beckman Finally Gets Away.

"Again he placed her on the bank and again was frustrated by the crumbling bank. The third time he was successful and made his way to a mission in another part of the city.

"The bodies of the slaughtered children and teachers, horribly mutilated, lay where they had fallen for three days, when they were hastily buried by a company of soldiers. Later they were interred with full military honors."

The missionaries were shut in at Sian Fu for six weeks before it was considered safe for them to travel. They then made their way to the coast, giving a full report of the massacre to the American consul at Hankow, who was to take up the matter with the authorities at Peking. Beckman and his baby daughter were left at Shanghai when the party sailed on the China.

LONG BATTLE WITH FLOODS

Traction Officials Home After Strenuous Experience.

CARS RUNNING AGAIN

Assistant General Manager Greenland and Chief Engineer Norford, with other Fort Wayne traction officials, returned to the city today, worn out with the long battle against the floods in the vicinity of Boyd park, but delighted with the success of the experiment Thursday afternoon when dynamite was used to break the ice gorges in the Wabash river at that point.

The explosive dislodged an immense field of ice which was backing up the water and sending it over the tracks of the interurban line, and the water went down so rapidly that it was possible to resume car service between Wabash and Peru this morning. For a stretch of a thousand feet in the vicinity of Boyd park the water was at one time a foot in depth over the tracks and there was no car service through the point for more than twelve hours.

Rivers Falling Here.

In Fort Wayne the rivers are slowly receding, the Maumee this morning showing a stage of 12.4 feet as against 12.7 feet twenty-four hours before. Weather Forecaster Palmer said that the fall might be expected to continue slowly for the next forty-eight hours at least.

ROOSEVELT HOSTS HERE TO PLAN FIGHT FOR DELEGATES

Many Republicans Break Away from Taft Regime and Answer Lee's Call for Conference in Fort Wayne.

WILL ORGANIZE DISTRICT.

Roosevelt republicans of the Twelfth district this afternoon voted to proceed with the organization in each of the counties, and to meet in Fort Wayne on Friday, March 8, for the election of a district chairman.

The meeting also adopted a resolution to vote for no man for delegate to the republican national convention who was not squarely in favor of the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

As the initial step in a fight to send Roosevelt delegates from the Twelfth district to the republican national convention, scores of republicans threw down a defi to the Taft regime and came to Fort Wayne today in response to an invitation from Edwin M. Lee, former republican state chairman, to organize for the Roosevelt propaganda.

The conference was held this afternoon in the banquet hall of the Anthony hotel, and it was attended by representative republicans from practically every section of the Twelfth district. Mr. Lee, commander-in-chief of the Roosevelt forces in Indiana, was unable to be present, but he sent in his stead Frank J. Doudican, of Indianapolis, one of the state organizers. It was explained that Mr. Lee was unable to get away from his duties at the state headquarters.

Well Known Republicans There.

In the assemblage were many men who have been prominent in republican affairs of the Twelfth district for years. The list included among others Hon. J. Norman Babcock, of Topeka, once a republican nominee for congress in this district and later a member of the state legislature from Lagrange county; L. M. Meiser, former republican chairman of Whitley county; Editor J. E. Buchanan, of the Auburn Dispatch, and A. W. Stults, Lee J. Hartzell, recently republican county chairman, and E. V. Harris, of this city.

DeKalb county sent a very big delegation to the conference. Among its membership were J. A. Provines, Harry Brown, Dr. J. A. Clevenger, Charles Abell, William Wearley, L. Clark, Charles Miller, Ed Reyher, Al Wells, A. C. Stewart, L. C. Wells, Charles Addington and Prof. J. A. Moore.

Whitley county also had a strong representation, including L. T. Bailey, E. G. Crill, O. S. Torpet and L. M. Meiser, besides others. Of the outside counties, Noble alone was unrepresented in the gathering about the Anthony hotel lobby before the conference was called to order.

Plan of Procedure.

According to Mr. Doudican, the plan of procedure in the effort for Mr. Roosevelt in the Twelfth district will be a matter entirely up to the men who attend the convention.

"We are certainly going to have a Roosevelt delegate ticket in the field in the Twelfth as in other districts of the state," said Mr. Doudican, "but the meeting today was called merely as a preliminary conference to get a line on sentiment in this district, and I cannot say definitely what action will be taken. It is possible that an organization will be perfected at this time, but I rather think that will be deferred to a

BRITISH STRIKERS ARE STANDING PAT

Refuse Government's Proposal for a Fresh Conference.

A MILLION MEN IDLE

London, March 1.—With the exception of a few small collieries situated in isolated districts all the coal mines of the country are idle this morning. Some of those places where work is still going on, notably in Warwickshire, where ten thousand men are employed, the miners will join the strikers tomorrow.

The only mine in the country where the men have decided to remain at work and not to join the strike is a little one in northern Wales and here mining is carried on under police protection. The estimated number of strikers who have already laid down their tools is 1,049,407.

In most of the colliery districts the men are taking advantage of the strike to enjoy a holiday, and no trouble is anticipated.

Wales Is Danger Spot.

The greatest danger spot is in South Wales, where the most determined spirit prevails and where the union funds are only sufficient to provide strike pay to the men for a short time. The railways throughout Wales issued notices today that their train service would be curtailed and other railways in Great Britain will follow this example tomorrow. The miners' federation resumed its conferences this morning and one of the members expressed the opinion that the negotiations with the owners would be successfully terminated in the course of next week.

Public opinion generally endorses the government's decision to pass a minimum wages bill unless the remainder of the owners agree to that principle, which has already been consented to by 60 per cent of the employers.

The conference of the miners federation adjourned after delegating to the executive committee full power to continue the negotiations with the owners and to summon the conference to meet again whenever it shall be necessary. Several hundred steamers are held up at the various ports through lack of

PEKING MUTINY STILL HAS SWAY

Disorder Somewhat Subsides, But Troops Continue to Terrorize and the Looting is Unchecked.

Peking, March 1.—At half past seven this evening desultory shooting again began in the city.

It is believed that Yuan Shi Kai has lost control. None of the troops except the Manchus are to be depended on and they evidently care only to defend the imperial and Forbidden cities.

Throughout the day looting of stores and residences has been going on in various parts of the city and there have been several skirmishes between the loyal troops and the mutineers in the outskirts.

The majority of the mutineers, however, had left the central districts before morning. Ten looters captured in the act of carrying off property were executed on the spot by loyal soldiers, several regiments of whom are patroling the streets.

The incendiary fires which were started last night have now all been extinguished or have died out. The loss is estimated approximately at $15,000,000.

The number of the casualties that have occurred among the civilians and the soldiers is not known but it is believed that the loss of life has been very heavy.

The outbreak was a most complete surprise both to the government and to the foreign legations and there is some apprehension of a recrudescence of the deserters tonight.

LOOTING CONTINUES.

The smoldering fires in many districts of the city are this evening being raked over by throngs of the poor. No fresh fires have occurred today, but there has been some further looting in remote quarters of the city. The streets have been thronged all day, but all the shops and houses are closed. Long lines of carts continue to bring valuables into the legation quarter, where they are stored in foreign banks and warehouses.

Space being limited in the legation quarters, only a few of the better class of Chinese are being permitted to take refuge there. Many Christians, however, are being harbored in the mission compound.

The trains departing for Tien Tsin are crowded with fugitives.

The slaughter and the continued firing apparently was designed to intimidate the people.

MORE TROOPS MUTINY.

Tien Tsin, March 1.—The Chinese troops at Feng-Tai, a village 22 miles out from Peking, on the Peking-Tien Tsin railroad, mutinied shortly after midnight this morning. There was much heavy firing in the native quarter.

The foreign community, composed entirely of railway employes and their families, retired to the British military post nearby, where 150 soldiers of the Somerset infantry are stationed to guard the railway line.

Dispatches from Peking declare that the situation there today is very serious. No reinforcements of foreign troops for the legation guard are required at present, however. By noon today it became evident that mutinous Chinese soldiers were causing trouble along the line of the railroad between the capital and this city. The morning train, which left Peking at 8:30 o'clock, had not yet reached Feng-Tai, twenty-two miles, at 11:50, and an English officer with a detachment of Somerset infantry, was sent in a light locomotive to ascertin the whereabouts of the train

AMERICAN POPE IS PREDICTION

Cardinal O'Connell Said to Be Slated to Succeed Pius X.

A REMARKABLE RISE

Montreal, Quebec, March 1.—Roman Catholic circles in Montreal are greatly exercised over news brought by prominent clergy who have been visiting the vatican that there are highly influential forces at work with the object of electing Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, Mass., as the next pope.

Pius X. is said to be in a much more serious state of health even than is generally believed. The bulletins announcing his convalescence have only been published in order to allay the fears and restrain the ambition of certain interested persons, it is asserted.

Rapid Rise is a Surprise.

Cardinal O'Connell's rapid rise in favor of the authorities at Rome has astounded French-Canadian Catholics, who now, however, believe they have discovered the real cause in a carefully conceived plan to bring him forward as a candidate for the papacy in order to obviate any repetition of a deadlock such as arose on the occasion of the election to office of the present pope.

In absence of an outside candidate, the same unhappy rivalry would again manifest itself, it is predicted. The ecclesiastical authorities who have just returned from Rome, however, affirm that such a situation will be avoided in the event of the decease of the present occupant of the See of St. Peter. They declare that Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, is bringing forward Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, as a candidate.

Why Choice is Likely.

The Italian cardinals only have a majority of two in the Sacred college now, and with these cardinals hopelessly divided on the choice of any candidate of their own nationality it would be easy to elect an outsider representing such a powerful nation as the United States on a compromise vote.

It need hardly be added that with an American pope far-reaching developments in the Catholic church might be confidently expected.

MINERS WANT NEW CONTRACT.

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—With the object of drawing a new contract to govern wages and general working conditions, representatives of the locals of the United Mine Workers of America in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas and of the Interstate Southeastern Coal Operators' association began a conference here today. Delegates today said there was small liklihood of a schedule being arranged until after the conference to be held in Indianapolis.

BANK EXAMINER HERE.

National Bank Examiner C. W. Camp of Garrett, and State Inspector Thomas are both in the city engaged in the regular inspection of Fort Wayne financial institutions.

TAFT PLEA FOR TARIFF BOARD

President Asks a Common Sense Method for Law Making

GIVEN IN "OUTLOOK"

New York, March 1.—President Taft in an authorized interview on tariff-making in the current number of The Outlook, entitled "Common Sense vs. Haphazard Methods," urges the continuation of the work of the tariff board as an issue on which to fight the coming presidential campaign. The interview was obtained by a special representative of The Outlook and in part is as follows:

"Not that I wish to see the tariff question made the mere football of politics," President Taft explained; "we have had too much of that already. But I should like to have the people of the United States pass their deliberate judgment on the issue as it has been made up within the last year—the difference between the common-sense way and the haphazard way of making a tariff law.

"As you know, I am a believer in the republican policy of protection. I want to see it continued; but I also want to see our party strengthen it by giving it an underpinning which cannot be swept away by the first passing flood of popular sentiment."

Wants Accurate Figures.

"And this purpose could be accomplished—how?" was asked.

"First, by fixing the rates at figures not dictated by a group of domestic producers for their own enrichment, and granted in exchange for party support, but based on the difference between the cost of production here and the cost of production abroad, ascertained by means which preclude all doubt of the substantial accuracy of the calculation.

"Second, by establishing on a permanent foundation the machinery for collecting the data of cost, so that it can be in continuous operation and its work ever more and more easily done. This machinery, I need not tell you, should be in charge of a tariff commission or board, corresponding in a general way with the non-partisan tariff board we now have.

Board's Work Continuing.

"A good many persons evidently think that the whole purpose of a tariff board is to collect material for a single tariff bill, or series of bills, and, not unnaturally, those who wish to see the government economically administered, question the wisdom of spending so much money and employing so many experts for the preparation of the tariff legislation of 1912, in view of the possibility that all this work may be torn up and done over as soon as a new set of hands take charge of our public affairs. Now, it is just such a contingency that the tariff board is designed to avoid.

"The collection of data to guide this year's legislation is only a first step. From now on, if congress consents to prolong its existence, the board will continue collecting data through the channels it has opened, and with the aid of men trained in their duties."

Would Prevent Ferment.

After reviewing the work of the board at considerable length the interview continues:

"To return to the broad question of tariff revision, you are not disheartened by what some critics say about the danger of keeping the country in a perpetual ferment of nervous apprehension regarding coming changes?

"Nothing could do more to prevent such a ferment than the very plan we are considering. Hitherto we have seen the whole tariff structure torn to pieces and rebuilt whenever there has been a change of parties in control at Washington, and even sometimes when the same party has remained responsible, but the personnel of the group in command has changed. Such overhaulings are always accompanied by a more or less violent convulsion of business, followed by a state of stagnation protracted through the whole period while the outcome continues at all in doubt.

Log-Rolling is Feared.

"In every instance the length of time which has elapsed since the last revision and the changes of conditions in various lines of production and commerce in the interval house a general dread lest there be heavy increases of duty in one quarter or deep cuts in another; and, unhappily, a feeling has prevailed widely that the decision where to make such increases and cuts would be reached not by a calm consideration of the merits of each case, but by a log-rolling or back-scratching process."

MUST COME WEST FOR TRIAL.

New York, March 1.—Patrick Farrell and Frank C. Webb, union labor leaders indicted at Indianapolis for alleged violation of the inter-state commerce law in transporting dynamite from state to state, will have to go to Indianapolis to stand trial March 12. United States Commissioner Alexander so decided today. Farrell and Webb have been at liberty under $10,000 bail each during the proceedings and bail was continued. They will not appeal.

BRISTOW BANGS AT UNCLE IKE

Kansas Senator Declares Wisconsin Senator is Not Worthy.

TOO MUCH CASH USED

Washington, March 1.—Insisting that any act of corruption that contributes to nomination in a sensational primary is just as culpable as if it occurs in election by a legislature, Senator Bristow, of Kansas, today urged the senate to reject the majority report of the committee on privileges and elections exonerating Senator Isaac Stephenson, of Wisconsin, of the charge that corrupt practices were employed in securing his election. "I believe," said Senator Bristow, "the evidence shows that corrupt methods and practices were used; that Mr. Stephenson and his managers not only corruptly used money to secure his election, but also flagrantly violated the laws of the state of Wisconsin against corrupt practices in elections and that by mere technicalities they seek to avoid the responsibility for their conduct. Any man who will openly violate the statutes of his state that have been passed to protect the honesty of its elections is not worthy a seat in this body."

Slush Fund Immense.

Senator Bristow then quoted Senator Stephenson's testimony admitting that he had expended $107,793 and made a detailed statement in regard to the organization of the Stephenson campaign committee. Quoting from the testimony he said that Mr. Stephenson's managers paid money to different candidates for the legislature, three of whom were elected, and that if the votes of those members had not been cast for Stephenson he would not have been elected, and that Stephenson hired a large number of men to go about the state and disburse money to different individuals to induce them to work for Stephenson at the election. Senator Bristow declared Stephenson actually participated in the distribution of these funds.

Senate Will Lose Popular Respect.

"If such campaigns as that which resulted in the election of Mr. Stephenson are to meet the approval of this body" concluded the speaker, "then it will lose the respect of the American people. The senate cannot have the confidence of the people if men immensely rich, with little qualification for the great office of senator of the United States but who desire the position as a child wants a toy, are to be permitted to employ political highwaymen as managers and organizers, such as the agents of Stephenson were, and then turn over to them vast sums of money to be used in purchasing the support of men wherever they can be found who will yield to such inducement.

"If this government is to live corruption in high places must be made as heinous as treason, for it is in the end more dangerous to the nation's welfare."

PEKIN MUTINY STILL HAS SWAY

and if necessary escort it on its way.

The telegraph lines toward the capital are badly crippled. Railway men believe that Feng-Tai was looted during the night. All train service toward Peking has been suspended.

A train from Peking has arrived here two hours behind schedule time. No European passengers were on board. Another train, which left Peking last night, returned to that city after proceeding a short distance, on account of firing being heard in the vicinity of the line.

HEARS PEKING IS QUIETER.

London, March 1.—The situation in Peking this afternoon was much quieter, according to the Exchange Telegraph company's dispatches from Tien Tsin. Burning and looting continued more or less actively throughout the morning hours, however. In the course of the night's rioting one Japanese subject was wounded, but there are thus far no reports of other casualties among foreigners. The property of all the nationalities outside the legation quarter suffered heavy damage at the hands of the rioters.

It is reported that there was trouble during the night at Feng Tai, twenty-two miles from Peking mutinous troops, it is said, destroyed the railway station there.

TAKES OPTIMISTIC VIEW.

London, March 1.—The British foreign office received a dispatch today from Sir John N. Jordan, British minister at Peking, indicating that the outbreak in Peking was of a sporadic character and intimating such a favorable view of the situation that the grave fear engendered by the first dispatches received here has been greatly allayed.

Sir John cables that Yuan Shi Kai has notified the foreign legations that only two regiments stationed in Peking are concerned in the mutiny and that he is confident that he will be able to control the situation. He adds that the damage in the Tartar city is not near as great as was at first reported.

The British government considers the report so favorable that it eliminates all immediate steps necesary for international action looking to the occupation by foreign troops of Peking.

HOME FROM GEORGIA.

William Geake Says It is Sudden Plunge From Summer to Winter.

William Geake, who arrived in the city a few days ago on his return from Georgia, where he spent the winter, says the trip was a sudden plunge for him from balmy summer into winter's chill. Mr. Geake has been getting his 500-acre plantation in excellent shape, and expects to return there in the fall to spend next winter away from the chilly blasts that come upon Fort Wayne.

When he left Georgia oats upon his farm had reached a height of ten inches.

WRIT OF OUSTER DENIED.

Missouri Supreme Court Saves Big Corporations.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 1.—The Missouri supreme court today denied the writ of ouster asked by the state against the Missouri Pacific, Iron Mountain and Wabash railroads, the Pacific Express company and the American Refrigerator Transit company.

The ouster was asked on allegations that the Missouri Pacific held stock in the other companies and because the Wabash was a parallel and competing line. The court held that it was not unlawful for one railroad to hold stock in another company when it did not undertake to control the other corporation and that the Wabash does not parallel the Missouri Pacific, because it operates through a different territory.

DISSOLUTION IS A GIGANTIC SHAM

Ann Arbor Professor Denounces Lawyer—Made Law for Business.

HITS MODERN WAYS

Chicago, March 1.—Dissolution plans of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies were characterized as shams; judicial review of economic questions an absurdity and lawyers were presented as a "curse to business" by speakers at the third conference of the Western Economic society, which was begun here today.

The Sherman act, its origin, interpretation and effect was the main theme discussed.

Harrison S. Smalley, professor of political economy of the University of Michigan, declared:

"The delays inseparable from judicial proceedings rob industrial legislation of much of its value. I believe that for efficiency and success we must have administrative regulation free from judicial review. By way of example, I may mention the acquiesence of the courts in the tobacco and Standard Oil dissolution plans, which were merely shams, making a change only in the appearance and not in the essence of the two combinations.

"After all, is not the very idea of judicial review of economic questions an absurdity—quite as absurd as would be a system under which legal questions could be appealed from the courts to tribunals of business men and economists?"

George W. Simmons, of St. Louis, declared that "one of the causes of uncertainty in business and timidity of capital is the constant tinkering of the tariff." He advocated a demand from all business organizations for a plank in national political platforms promising intelligent and prompt revision of the tariff.

"If I were to attempt to define the Sherman law briefly," said Mr. Simmons, "I would say that it was strictly a lawyers' law—conceived by lawyers, framed by lawyers and enacted by lawyers so that the common business man could not possibly know how to conduct his business without employing a lawyer to interpret it for him.

"If there is any one thing that is a curse to the business of the country today it is that we have too many lawyers. In the last session of congress there were 212 lawyers and less than fifty business men."

TOWNS SHOWS FEELING.

Brandt's Lawyer Will Kick If He Was Deceived.

New York, March 1.—A number of witnesses are still to be examined by the grand jury which again continued its investigation today to ascertain if there was a conspiracy to send Folke E. Brandt, the former man servant of the banker, Mortimer L. Schiff, to state prison for a long term for first degree burglary.

Mirabeau L. Towns, Brandt's counsel, said after reading Gov. Dix's statement that Brandt had applied for clemency, that he would stand for no lies and that if he found Brandt had been lying to him his position would change immediately.

"I have Brandt's positive statement to the effect that he never made formal application to the governor for pardon," said Mr. Towns. "All I want is proof that Brandt lied to me when he said he had made no application for clemency."

UNCLE JIM GOT VERY EMPHATIC

Some Interesting Facts in the Everglades Hearing.

FIND A BAD MEMORY

Washington, March 1.—Thomas E. Will, a salesman of Florida Everglades land, told the house committee on agricultural expenditures today that a "clerk" in the government printing office showed him a proof of the suppressed Wright report on the Everglades in February, 1910. No consideration passed, Will said, for seeing the proof. Later he and E. C. Howe, another Florida land salesman, were shown an agricultural department circular questioning the value of Everglades land.

Will said he and E. C. Howe then went to the department to talk about the situation. Will said Howe was bold and aggressive in denouncing the circular as untrue and misleading. He said Howe threatened to take the matter to Secretary Wilson when C. E. Elliott, chief of the drainage bureau, defended the circular, but when Howe got before the secretary he had little to say.

Will told of calling on Secretary Wilson a second time to urge the early publication of the Wright report.

"I told them Howe and I wouldn't do a d—n thing for them until they quit fighting among themselves," Will quoted the secretary as saying, as he brought down his fist on the table. Will said he understood the secretary to mean that it was because of political fights in Florida that he was holding up the Wright report.

Several times members returned to the incident of Will being permitted to read proof of Wright's report before it had been made public. Representative Floyd insisted upon the name of the government official who furnished the information.

Will said he could not recall the man's name but would endeavor to learn it.

WILL NOT ARRIVE IN TIME.

Some of the Alleged Dynamiters Resist Extradition.

Washington, March 1.—The resistance of a few of the men arrested on the indictments returned at Indianapolis in the alleged dynamite conspiracy will result, according to department of justice officials, in preventing their removal to Indianapolis for the hearing set for March 12. The government has instituted removal proceedings in a number of cases.

Five or six of the defendants admit their names are the same as those mentioned in the indictment, but claim they are not the persons wanted. It is incumbent upon the government to prove their identity and this is causing the delay.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE IS FINED.

Jeffersonville, Ind., March 1.—Oscar L. Hay, justice of the peace, was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $69, by Mayor James E. Burke today on the charge of assaulting Thomas McCormick, who is alleged to have been knocked down and kicked in the side. Hay testified that McCormick had pretended to telephone his wife from Hay's office, but instead used his telephone to call Justice James S. Keigwin a "rival marrying squire," about an eloping couple. The assault occurred three-quarters of an hour later.

HAVE INVADED HONDURAS.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, March 1.—Jose Marin Villadanies, a Honduran revolutionary belonging to Amapala, has crossed the San Salvador frontier into Honduras with sixty men and captured the border town of Aramacina. There were only five Honduran soldiers stationed in Aramacina when the revolutionaries appeared. The Honduras government is rushing troops to the scene and expects to suppress the outbreak in a few days.

ICE FLOE SWEEPS THE OHIO.

Gallipolis, Ohio, March 1.—All steamboats were forced to seek protection today from what the river men say is the heaviest flow of ice that has passed here in thirty-five years. The wharf boat at Proctorville, below here, sank today with a loss of $5,000. The steamer Bedford, valued at $15,000, was sunk at Rooslanding and will be a total loss.

HE HAS RESIGNED.

Buenos Ayres, March 1.—Liberto Rokas, president of Paraguay, has been made a prisoner by the members of the revolutionary party in Asuncion and compelled to resign his office, according to a dispatch received here from that city today. The Paraguyan congress has accepted his resignation and appointed Pedro Pena, former Paraguayan minister to Peru, to the office of provisional president.

JURORS ORDERED NOT TO APPEAR

More Than $100 Spent in Mileage to Summon Walker Venire.

SKULL FRACTURED

Notice was sent out today by Sheriff A. M. Reichelderfer to members of the special venire of 100 men summoned to try William T. Walker and to the regular circuit court panel of jurors not to appear for the trial on Monday morning as the case was settled by the plea of guilty entered yesterday.

The cost of summoning the jurors amounted to $101.80 in mileage but the saving to the county in all probability amounted to $1,500, as it would probably have cost that much to carry the case through and present the evidence and arguments to a jury. Walker will be taken to prison the first of next week. The exact day has not been determined.

In preparation for the trial of the case Prosecutor Harry H. Hilgemann had the skull of Walker's murdered wife exhumed and found that it had been fractured. The state's attorneys have always been convinced that Walker's story of the manner in which he killed his wife was not true in all its details and had a mass of evidence to contradict many of the statements and stood ready to prove that the murder was exceptionally brutal.

Asks for More Particulars.

Sylvester and Elizabeth Bowser, who were sued some time ago by Margaret Bowser, the aged mother, who claimed she had been mistreated after having given her property to her son and his wife, filed a demurrer in the circuit court today asking more specific information.

He says that the manner in which his mother was mistreated, of what it consisted and in what respect he failed to provide her a proper home are facts that he is entitled to. He also sets up that the suit does not set out there was any agreement in the deed to provide Mrs. Bowser with a home.

James M. Paulsel asks a divorce from Lillie Belle Paulsel, charging she constantly accused him of infidelity, threw hot water on him and once threatened to shoot him with his revolver. Howard Hanthorn filed the suit in the superior court.

Under a New Law.

Harry Miller, charged with stealing a horse and buggy from Edward Nolan, was arraigned in the circuit court this afternoon and unless he is able to make some sort of a compromise he will be tried under the special statute covering horse stealing which carries a penalty to from three to fifteen years in prison.

Horse thieves have heretofore been allowed to plead to charges of grand larceny with penalties of two to fourteen attached. Late this afternoon the prisoner was undecided as to what sort of a plea he would enter.

Viewers Are Appointed.

In the commissioners' court today Henry Gelz and Julius Trahim were appointed viewers on the Cedar Creek stone road.

Got Verdict for $400.

A jury in the circuit court at Huntington gave a verdict of $400 to John Marsh in his suit against Lafayette Gierhart, of this city, and Victor McCord, of Auburn. He asked $500 damages and charges that his rig was demolished by the two men who were racing their automobiles last July near the Country club. The rig was demolished and Marsh's wife severely hurt.

THE NEW BISHOP VISITED DELPHOS

Celebrated Mass at Catholic Church and Delivered Address to the Children.

Delphos, O., March 1.—Right Rev. Joseph Schrembs, first bishop of the new Catholic diocese of Toledo, made his first visit to Delphos yesterday, coming here from Lima. He was met at the station by Rev. Father Rupert and Charles A. Lang, and taken to St. John's rectory in an automobile.

The bishop celebrated mass at St. John's church Thursday morning at 7:00 o'clock. There was a large attendance at the service and the Bishop spoke briefly to those present, his remarks being addressed principally to the children. He solicited the prayers of all in his work of laying the foundation for the new Toledo diocese. He stated that he must necessarily be brief on this occasion as his time belonged to the people of Landeck, where he was going to administer confirmation to a large class. He stated, however, that he would soon visit Delphos for the purpose of administering confirmation to a class here when he would have more time to give to the people of St. John's congregation.

The bishop took breakfast at the parochial residence, after which, accompanied by Father Ruper, he was taken to Landeck in a cab, where he administered confirmation.

WILL GET SECOND TERM.

Timothy DeBrular Will Be Reappointed Postmaster at Garrett.

Garrett, Ind., March 1.—Timothy DeBrular, who for the last four years has been the efficient postmaster at Garrett, will be reappointed to the position for a second term. This is now an assured fact. His appointment for the second term was sent by President Taft to the senate last week and it is only a matter of routine for its confirmation by that body. The president acted on recommendation of Harry New, Indiana's republican committeeman, in making the appointment. There was no other candidate for the office. Mr. DeBrular will possess certificates of appointment to the post from both Roosevelt and Taft.

Immediately upon making the purchase Mr. Iler formed a consolidation with the business of Howard A. Hinklin and moved the Moore equipment to the Hinklin establishment. Mr. Iler will be actively connected with the firm.

The oldest child is 17, the next 12, and the rest below that age, with the youngest a pair of twins aged only seven months. A WOMAN'S HAPPINESS.

Dr. Baker in The Household.

A woman's happiness, if she be normal in mind, depends on her health, for perfect health makes any woman or girl beautiful. Few women have peach-bloom cheeks or cherry-red lips. Those that have such beauty marks are healthy. How many do we see that are aenemic, colorless, thin, cold to the touch, with a long train of femiuine ills that wears out their nervous system, making them unattractive and unlikeable, unless they be gifted with divine goodness of soul. Nearly all homeliness in woman comes from a derangement of the metabolism, which may occur in childhood, but most frequently in young womanhood. Metalbolism is the process by which the cells and blood of the body is renewed and wasted. We physicians who understand this process know by actual demonstration that any woman or girl can change her aenemic, colorless, scrawny body and face into one of plumpness and healtbful color, by the simple process of drinking a German chemist's fluid called "metabolinum" twice daily for a few weeks and thereafter two or three times a week. Metalbolinum is concentrated and sold in pint bottles by the leading pharmacists in the larger cities and is rather too expensive, perhaps for the poor who need it the most, but society women, actresses, actors, public speakers, musicians, singers, both male and female, are now drinking it regularly to sustain the nerves and preserve the beauty, which is so important to their calling. Metalbolinum concentrated in pint bottles—which diluted with water makes a gallon or more—retails at one dollar and twenty-five cents. It contains no alcohol or narcotic drugs and I feel free to recommend it to any one whose system needs a "builder" and tonic, because it is never advertised.

GOLDEN ROD 21 MILES HIGH.

Made Up of $20 Gold Pieces and Represents Wealth of Kansas.

Topeka, Kan., March 1.—Ever hear of the Kansas golden rod? It is twenty-one miles high and is made of $20 gold pieces, representing the new wealth, created in Kansas in 1911. It is the money Kansas farmers made during the worst year the state has ever had.

It was the hottest year ever recorded, and there are but few when the dry weather was so extensive as in the last year, and still Kansas produced enough wealth to build a golden shaft twenty-one miles high of $20 gold pieces, twenty-seven to the foot. During the year the Kansas farmers sat down to supper $777,000 richer than the night before.

Congressman Cyrus Cline is expected to arrive in the city tomorrow from Washington, and will attend the democratic congressional convention in this city tomorrow.

THE PEOPLE AND THE BOND ISSUE.

The so-called "indignation" meeting held Wednesda night to discuss the proposed issue of city bonds for the purchase of the river banks and other park improvements adopted a resolution demanding that the question be submitted to a vote of the people. We do not believe any advocate of the bond issue will be disposed to quarrel with this declaration. At least, we believe no such advocate will be hostile to any means that may be devised to ascertain in a definite and satisfactory way what the major sentiment of the people is in respect of this plan to raise money for the proposed improvement. Unhappily there is no provision in law for submitting such questions to a vote. An election upon this matter could have no force, either to mandate the council to issue or enjoin the council from issuing bonds. Of course, if some means for definitely ascertaining public sentiment can be found, the council in all probability would feel bound by what such an expression might declare. Meanwhile, let the question be discussed with the widest publicity and in the most popular way. This newspaper believes that a majority of the people of Fort Wayne will approve both the purpose of such an expenditure and the means proposed for obtaining the money to make the expenditure. At all events, a candid and fair discussion of the question from all points of view will be helpful in a variety of ways to kindle a lively civic spirit in Fort Wayne. The people should understand that this great improvement is designed for their benefit and pleasure. If there are any who do not fully appreciate that and who do not have a clear notion of the economy and other advantages of issuing bonds for an outright purchase of the river banks, the advocates of the movement will be pleased to continue their campaign of education, welcoming inquiry and urging the freest discussion.

The high school authorities here are closing in on the "frats" and will take drastic measures with obdurate members of the secret societies. All the arguments and representations that the "frats" are harmless and much to be desired go for naught against the fact that they are outlawed. Parents of youngsters who hold "frat" membership should bear this in mind. It may or may not be a serious thing to encourage a boy or girl to cultivate caste and snobbishness, but it is a serious thing to uphold youth in defiance of the laws. The existence of fraternities in the public schools is by agreement of practically all the leading public educators of the country a bad thing. Those men who should know the good there is in them were there any, join in a general and unqualified condemnation. The "anti-frat" statute in Indiana was drawn and passed at the behest of the men in charge of the schools. They knew what they were doing and why they did it. But whether or not, the law is there and should be obeyed. To defy it is anarchy.

There must be something at bottom wrong with a system of government which cannot prevent such a calamity as a strike of all the coal miners in a country like Great Britain. The same calamity might and at any time may fall upon this country. If a foreign invasion were threatened or a large part of the populace turned to rioting and destruction of property the power of the state would soon be invoked and made to be felt. But a general strike of miners prolonged for any great time would have consequences worse than invasion by a foreign foe; worse than an internal uprising. British industry depends almost wholly upon fuel and any condition which should paralyze industry would subject the people to terrors beside which war would be mercy. It should not be so easily possible for two elements of society to say to each other, "We refuse to agree and the public may take the consequences."

J. P. Morgan & Co. received $70,000,000 for organizing the steel trust, according to the expert who delved into the affairs of the big combine for the congressional committee. That is a good deal to be paid for any kind of a job, but looking at it from another point of view it was not so much. What the steel trust has been worth to those who went into it and still control it is a matter to be weighed. Over a billion of profits in nine years means that there has been taken out of the steel trust about double the money actually put into it. Moreover, the services of Morgan & Co. probably did not entirely cease with the accomplished fact of the merger. Morgan & Co. have the power to keep profane and meddling hands off of big business, and until recently performed considerable service of that sort.

World peace seems to have got its trucks switched to the back track. With Italy and Turkey still at war, a revolt shaking the new Chinese republic, a revolution menacing the Madero government in Mexico, China preparing to bombard Dutch ports in Java and other eruptions and disturbances convulsing the times in many parts of the world, it looks quite a bit as though the altruistic dream of President Taft, Mr. Carnegie and other harmonic leaders had been turned into something of a nightmare.

Doc Wiley announces with emphasis that he has no thought of resigning his official place. That is good news—quite as good news as that he has no thought of becoming a democratic candidate for vice president.

MUNICIPAL CARE OF THE SHADE TREES.

By WILLIAM SOLOTAROFF,

Secretary and Superintendent of the Shade Tree Commission, East Orange, N. J.

(Address delivered at annual convention of American Civic Association, Washington, D. C., December, 1911.)

Trees on the streets may be planted either by individual land owners or public officials. The results obtained in cities where the task is left to the property owners have been very unsatisfactory. The trees on the same street bear evidence of the diversity of taste of the planters. There are half a dozen or more species on the same street, undesirable mixed with desirable, of all shapes and sizes, set either too closely or too far apart. In some cases the trees are not trimmed at all and their limbs are so low as to touch the heads of pedestrians; in others they are pruned too high. The trees have been left unprotected by guards, many of them have been bitten by horses, and there is evidence that they have been injured by insect pests.

It is only when the planting and care of street trees is vested in a special department that all of the principles essential to secure the most stately and impressive effects of highway planting can be applied; such as the choice of the proper species, the use of one variety on a street, setting out of specimens at uniform and proper distances apart, and the protection and cultivation of the trees afterward. The task of such a department is not a mean one in the life of the modern city.

The real progress in municipal control may be said to date from 1893, when the state of New Jersey passed a model statute to provide for the planting and care of shade trees on the highways of the municipalities of the state. The other states that have passed the most advanced laws along the lines of securing the more general adoption of the system of municipal control of street trees are Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Massachusetts, in 1899, passed an act providing that every town must elect a tree warden, and defined the duties and powers of the office. In 1907, Pennsylvania passed a shade tree law, modeled after the New Jersey act of 1893 and its amendments. The laws of New Jersey and Pennsylvania which provide for the establishment of shade tree commissions are not of general application to all municipalities, but are of local option. They become operative in a town or city only after its adoption by the town or city council.

Up to date forty-six towns and cities in New Jersey have established shade tree commissions. The Pennsylvania statute has been adopted by eight cities. Briefly the provision of the acts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania may be summarized as follows:

When by resolution of the city council it is decided that the law shall become operative in a city, then from that time all matters pertaining to shade trees are placed in the hands of the respective commissions. All work is carried on in a systematic way, and the trees are planted, pruned, sprayed and removed under the direction of the commission. Wherein these commissioners differ from other similar bodies is that they have the power of initiative in the matter of planting. They decide that a certain street is to be planted and determine the species of tree. An advertisement of the intention to plant is inserted for two weeks in the public newspapers, and all persons interested in the improvement are given an opportunity to be heard. After the work is done the commissioners meet and certify a list to the receiver of taxes on which are given the names of the owners in front of whose property trees were set out and the cost of the work. These assessments are entered by the receiver of taxes on the annual tax bill and are paid the same way as any other legal lien. The cost of pruning, spraying, removing dead trees and repairing old ones is provided for by a general appropriation.

The laws of Massachusetts in regard to the planting and care of shade trees in towns and cities are very progressive. The "tree warden act" of 1899 provided that every town must elect a tree warden, and defined the duties and powers of the office. This act did not apply to cities, but by the laws of 1910, the "tree warden act" was extended in practically all its provisions, except that requiring the election of a tree warden, to the cities of the commonwealth as well. Thus the act of 1899 and its amendments secure the regulation of the planting and care of shade trees in practically every town and city of the state.

In the year 1904 the legislature of the state of Ohio granted to cities the power to "regulate the planting, trimming and preservation of shade trees and ornamental shrubbery."

While the progress in the municipal control of shade trees during the past few year has been marked, it is but a beginning. Shade tree legislation needs to be made broader so as to embrace the planting and maintenance of trees on county, state and other public roads and highways. In order that we may realize the full benefits of trees, the planting must not stop at the city's gates. The systematic planting of trees on country roads is noted by the traveler in Europe, especially in France, Holland and Germany. The builders of a road should consider its decorative as well as its engineering features.

If we are to have trees in our cities, there must be a place in which to set them. The provision for the street tree has been made a matter with which the city engineer has concerned himself very little. On residential streets there should be a continuous park strip provided, at least four feet in width, along which trees may be planted. If the width of the street permits it, these strips may be made up to ten feet or more, but a width of four feet is about the minimum space along which trees can be planted. Frequently no planting strip is provided at all, or it is made so narrow that it is impossible to set out trees. On business streets having sidewalks entirely paved, trees can be planted and maintained if sufficiently large excavations are made for the trees, good soil supplied and grills placed around their bases to prevent the soil from being tramped on by pedestrians.

The town planner must provide for the street tree and so co-ordinate the other street fixtures that the tree's place will not be usurped. In many cities of Pennsylvania, for example, telephone and electric light poles are placed on the sidewalk next to the curb where trees ought to go, and the trees are forced into the space between the sidewalk and the houses. From the roadway of such a street only the poles can be seen.

More trained men are needed as municipal arboriculturists. It is a new calling of great dignity and importance, for the tree warden or city forester is the guardian of one of the chief resources for maintaining the beauty and health of a city. His task is a greater one than simply the propagation of trees according to scientific principles. He must be an enthusiast in his work and inspire among the people of the community the proper appreciation of the value of trees. The people will then in turn help him in the administration of his office, for his success will largely depend upon the interest of the people of his town or city in their trees and the support which they give him. The writer cannot conclude without a plea for the better understanding and the support of the young men who have entered this new field of public service.

HOUSE IS BUILT TO AID THE EYE

No Shadow Falls in This House of a Kansas City Doctor.

CAN READ ANYWHERE

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—A house built for the eye, in which a shadow never is cast, has been constructed on plans designed by Dr. W. H. Schultz, at 3655 Janssen place. A newspaper can be read in any corner of the house in any position either in daylight or after the artificial lights are in use.

The dining room is Dr. Schultz's especial pride. In this room he has followed the rule that there should be one square foot of daylight opening for each five square feet of floor space. To meet this requirement there is a window ten feet high and seventeen feet wide at the east end. Also the artificial lighting in this room is arranged with the highest regard for the eye. The chandelier is a large brass bowl, suspended from the ceiling by chains. In this bowl are concealed five sixty-watt tungsten lamps with powerful reflectors throwing their direct light upward to the ceiling. The ceiling is elliptical in form, finished in ivory, and it gives the light back so transfused that any corner is as light as the center and the person entering does not notice the source of the light.

Prism Window of Amber.

Another ideal optical arrangement is the English prism art window of amber-colored glass on the main stairway. This glass is of a peculiar shade of amber that enhances the light, and even in late twilight the reception hall is flooded with light, which, even at the lightest hours of the day, does not become tiresome to the eye.

In designing the decorations of his home, Dr. Schultz delved deep into oculist lore, and he avoided the use of reds, dark greens, dark blues and browns, which absorb light, and gave preference to old ivory, cream, grays and buff, all of which reflect light. He was careful to employ only those shades that do not give direct or dazzling reflections.

"But it is not my ideal," said Dr. Schultz. "I have broken some of the rules in the building of the house. I should have liked to carry out the diffused lighting plan throughout, but Mrs. Schultz did not feel the same solicitude for the eye that I did, and did not want to sacrifice beautiful lighting fixtures merely to be scientifically correct. So we have compromised and have some light brackets and electroliers."

Dr. Schultz believes that within twenty years the care of the eye will be as important a question in home designing as sanitation. He regards the low-hanging, direct light as barbarous and the cause of much illness and suffering.

Geometric Finish for Room.

The residence is notable in many other particulars. The dining room ceiling is finished in geometrical figures, and in the center of each motif is a small Pompeiian figure exquisitely modeled in plaster.

The ornamental light brackets, that are a concession to Mrs. Schultz, are in bronze and of Pompeiian design, and placed very high. In addition are very tall floor electroliers of similar design which can be plugged into the baseboard wherever they may be wanted.

DENIES HE IS WITH REBELS.

GEN. GERONIMO TREVINO OF MEXICO.

General Geronimo Trevino, in a message from Monterey, denied he was affiliated with the rebels, and said he would remain loyal to the Madero government. His message read:—

"I have not accepted and will not accept any public office not tendered to me by the national government. I am an honorable soldier, and loyalty always will be the guide of my acts. I shall defend the established government until peace is restored or I shall go down with it in accord with my convictions of my duty."

A HOT WAVE COMING

The chances are good for warm weather about July Fourth and equally so for a cold snap in November. When grim winter strikes us again you should be prepared and the one best bet is to install a HOLLAND WARM AIR FURNACE. Now is the right time to make preparations.

There are hundreds of Fort Wayne homes partially heated with stoves, and in most cases the owners have considered the purchase of a furnace but have not done so for the reason that changes in the basement, drainage, chimney, etc., are required. More have to excavate under the center of house, earth taken away and furnace room cemented. While it takes extra time to provide old houses for furnaces, it is not difficult or expensive, and I am convinced that you would not hesitate to invest the moderate sum necessary for a first-class heating plant, if you realized the benefits.

I am in position to submit estimates for a complete outfit, including excavation work and whatever changes are necessary.

You can save money and annoyance if you let me look after the work, but it is advisable to make preparations early as the labor cost is less than during the late summer and fall rush season.

HOLLAND furnaces cost very little more than ordinary furnaces, but are more durable, and require less fuel. We have some in operation in all parts of the city, so that you can ask your friends or neighbors and in that way know exactly what results the HOLLAND produces.

Let us show you the HOLLAND together with our plan and estimate for a complete and guaranteed plant.

Call me by phone and I will measure your house, and submit a proposition that I feel confident will meet your approval. If building new house send me your plans.

R. J. ASH,
Reliable Stove Dealer.

HOLLAND FURNACES MAKE WARM FRIENDS.

FLOOD RECLUSE DIES.

Old Ex-Boatman Would Never Leave Inundated Home.

Pottstown, Pa., March 1.—Solomon Bunn, 70 years old, a remnant of the old-time Schuylkill canal boatmen in the days when a trip from the coal regions to New York meant a clear profit of over $250 to them, was found dead in the bathroom at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ephaim Raifsnyder. Paralysis was the cause. During the civil war he carried government supplies from Philadelphia to Washington for the men at the front.

For many years Mr. Bunn, with his brother Reuben, who was also a boatman, lived during the winter seasons in the Bunn homestead, along the Schuylkill road opposite Pottstown. No matter how high the freshets rose, and even when their little home was surrounded by water, they refused to leave it, despite the efforts of those who went in boats to take them to a safe place.

For fifty years little notches made by the Bunn brothers in the woodwork of their house indicated the height of the floods in the Schuylkill river. They were recognized authorities on the Schuylkill freshets, the greatest of which poured into the second story of their home. Only when illness came to him six months ago did the last of the Bunn brothers in the little house agree to abandon his recluse life.

The United States produced last year $20,000,000,000 worth of manufactures, of which $1,000,000,000 worth were exported.

THE ST. ALOYSIUS SODALITY.

Voted at Meeting to Affiliate With the State Body.

The St. Aloysius Young Men's sodality of the St. Mary's Catholic church, at its meeting held Thursday evening at the school hall, voted unanimously to affiliate as a body with the St. Joseph's Statzverband of Indiana. This society is connected with the German Central verein and also the Federation of Catholic societies.

A month ago President Henry Seyfred, of St. Joseph's Statzverband, visited Fort Wayne and addressed the young men's societies of all the German churches in the city, speaking upon the social question of the day and urged each organization to become affiliated with the society which he represents. His appeal was followed at last night's meeting by President Adam A. Reinhart and Vice President George M. Haffner, of the St. Charles Benevolent society.

This makes four branches in Fort Wayne as follows: The St. Carolus Borroman and the St. Aloysius sodality of St. Mary's church, and St. Martinus and St. Stephen's society of St. Peter's church. The spiritual advisers are the Rt. Rev. Mgr. John H. Oechtering, V. G., pastor of St. Mary's church, and the Rev. Charles Thiele, pastor of St. Peter's church.

It is planned to send delegates to the state convention at Terre Haute in May, and also to the national convention at Toledo in September. It is also the intention of the four local branches to attend the national convention in a body, accompanied by a band.

The resolutions likewise declare in favor of state wide prohibition and ask that the people of Indiana be given an opportunity to express themselves on this subject.

SLY NEEDLE IN HER ARM.

Got in Without Woman Knowing it Till Afterward.

Altoona, Pa., March 1.—After being treated for various ailments for eight months, during which time she suffered intense pain, an X-ray photograph of Mrs. Margaret Myers', right forearm was taken, disclosing a sewing needle. Its presence in her arm she cannot account for, as she has no recollection of ever experiencing any pain until last June, when the arm began to swell, apparently without cause. The needle was cut out.

ONLY CHICKEN NOSED MAN.

Death Recalls Remarkable Surgery That Patched Him Up.

Pottsville, Pa., March 1.—Charles William Kalbach, aged 65 years, the only resident of Pottsville who ever had chicken flesh successfully grafted upon his body, died suddenly at his home here while eating breakfast.

Some years ago he met with an accident which resulted in the slicing off of part of his nose, and a local physician successfully experimented by replacing the missing portion with a piece of chicken flesh and skin, with scarcely any disfigurement.

SUFFERED FROM STRANGE MALADY

George P. Stewart Lay Rigid and Immovable for Several Years.

SECOND CASE KNOWN

After suffering for nine years from arthritis deformans, one of the most baffling diseases known to the medical profession, George Stewart, aged 45 years, died Thursday afternoon at his home, 434 Baker street. During the past nine years Mr. Stewart had been bedfast, his body ossified and his joints immovable, save for his lower jaw, which he could use only in a limited way.

The disease from which he died is the second of its kind that an adult has ever had, the first case coming under the attention of the medical profession being that of Jonathan Bass, who suffered with the disease for a period of ten years before death relieved him. Mr. Bass was at one time exhibited at the old Geary museum in Fort Wayne under the name of the "Ossified Man." The disease causes a complete ankylosis or rigidity of every joint in the body except the lower jaw, and another peculiar phase is that the muscles fall from the body, reducing the sufferer to skin and bones. At the time Mr. Stewart contracted the disease he weighed 200 pounds and at the time of his death he was reduced to a weight of 60 pounds. The joints of the body slowly stiffen with the disease and unless broken can never be moved. As far as known the death of Mr. Stewart leaves the world without a disease of this kind.

Mr. Stewart was born October 19, 1846, in Plymouth, Ind., and was reared at that place. He entered the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company after leaving school and remained with the company for twenty-five years, up until the time of his illness, serving in many different capacities. In 1893 he was given the position of train dispatcher and has since made Fort Wayne his home. A week ago Mr. Stewart was baptized and received into the Catholic church and received all of the last sacraments before his death.

Surviving relatives include the widow and two children, Zillah M. and Gwendolyn K. Stewart; his mother, Mrs. H. E. Stewart, of South Bend, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. William Van Durnat, of South Bend, and Miss Cora Stewart, of this city. The deceased was a member of the Royal Arcanum and of the Pennsylvania Relief corps.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the family residence, 434 Baker street, privately, and the body will be shipped to the old home at Plymouth for interment. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so from 5 until 8 o'clock this evening.

BRIDE PAYS ALL THE BILLS.

Defrays Expenses After Leap Year Proposal.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—Miss Margaret E. Molenkoph (that was) of Germantown, is a leap-year bride in the true sense of the word.

She proposed for the hand of Frederick F. Carr, her suit was accepted and they were married in Wilmington, Del., by the Rev. George L. Wolfe.

The present Mrs. Carr defrayed all expenses of the trip. She is 21 years old. Her husband is 22. They returned home and surprised their friends with the announcement that they were married.

"When Fred called at the house I proposed to him," explained the young bride. "I said, 'Fred suppose we get married this month and surprise our friends?' We had planned to marry later. Fred proposed the first time.

"'Do you mean it, Margaret? Do you mean this to be a leap year proposal?' he asked in astonishment.

"'I certainly do, I want to avoid the excitement and worry of a home wedding,' I answered, 'Let us slip off quietly and get married in New Jersey or Wilmington.' 'I accept your proposal of marriage,' he said. 'Now since this is leap year, I must buy the ring, pay for the transportation and give the minister his fee,' I told him. I made him agree and I paid for them."

BOARD TAKES UP FRESH CAMPAIGN

Will Endeavor to Pave Streets Not Included in Present Plans.

WILL SECURE PLANS

Members of the board of public works took up at a meeting today the question of paving streets to the city limits and it is likely that plans will be ordered of the civil engineer for Huffman street north of Archer avenue and Piqua avenue.

Remonstrances that killed improvements on a couple of the streets under contemplation will give the board a little more money in the street paving fund and it is likely that the controller will be able to furnish additional money when it is needed. Piqua avenue will probably be preferred as a pavement is badly needed.

After an inspection of Harrison street between Main and Pearl it was determined that a new pavement is needed in the square and the resolution was confirmed. This was held over from last night at the solicitation of property owners who thought the present pavement good enough for another year.

The question of paving Harrison street from the first alley south of Grand street to Butler, held over from the meeting last night, was deferred until Monday and the matter is up to the property owners to get in a remonstrance that is regular. One presented is not satisfactory to the board and it is the opinion that the majority of the owners favor the improvement.

The paving of Huestis avenue was killed by remonstrance last night and it is likely that paving on East Wayne street will be abandoned on account of a new fill that will prevent securing a good foundation. On Maumee avenue it is proposed to extend the pavement to Lumbard street and a new petition may be presented.

Resolutions were confirmed for paving of Butler street from Clinton to Lafayette; Kinnaird avenue from Fairfield avenue to Broadway; Walnut street from Fairfield to Miner; South Wayne avenue from Creighton avenue to Organ avenue; Maumee avenue from Walton to Warren street; Superior street from Calhoun to Wells; Lake avenue from Crescent avenue to Walton avenue; Maiden lane from Main to Pearl street; Wells street from Superior street to the bridge; Harrison street from Superior to the north line of Trentman's addition, and Wayne street from Grant avenue to Glasgow avenue.

Sidewalk plans were ordered for sidewalks on Main street from Clay to Maiden lane, Calhoun street from Superior to Eureka, the west side of Barr street from Wayne street to the first alley north, the east side of Clay street from Washington to Columbia street, west side of Clay street from Washington street to the Nickel Plate and Columbia street from Harrison to Barr. The resolution provides that all stone flagging in suitable condition to be used be saved and relaid in conformity with the rest of the new work.

North Clinton street residents were after sidewalks and were told that they had not gotten them because there are no funds.

Notes of the City Hall.

At a joint conference between the board of works and county commissioners the question of placing walks on the Rudisill and widening those on Columbia avenue bridge was taken up with the result that this will probably be done. It was decided to move back the shut-off valve of the Lakeside sewer and allow it to remain where it now is built, leaving the opening under the bridge abutment.

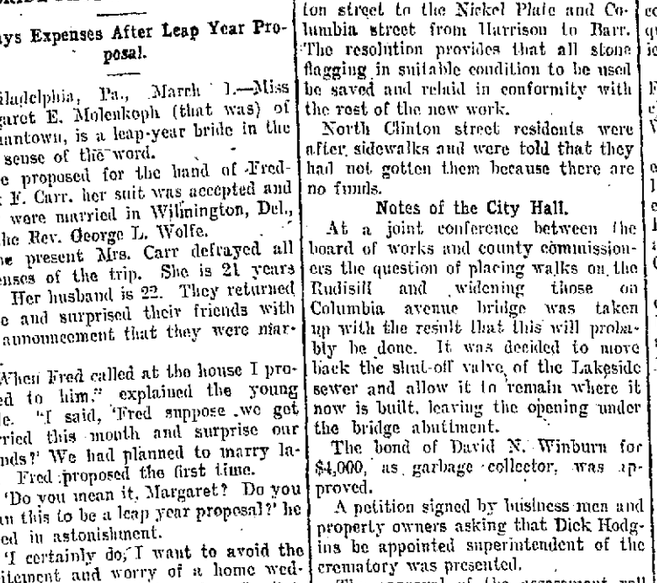
The bond of David N. Winburn for $4,000, as garbage collector, was approved.

A petition signed by business men and property owners asking that Dick Hodgins be appointed superintendent of the crematory was presented.

The approval of the assessment roll for the construction of a main sewer in South Wayne was deferred by the board until Monday afternoon.

The traction company notified the board that it will do its own paving within its track limits on all streets to be paved this year.

SENATOR LODGE CLIMBS THE FENCE BETWEEN FRIENDSHIP AND REASON.



Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, in discussing Mr. Roosevelt's statement that he would accept if nominated for President, said:—

"I am opposed to the constitutional changes advocated by Mr. Roosevelt in his recent speech at Columbus. I have very strong convictions on those questions, which during the last three or four years I have expressed in public with such force of argument as I could command. But Mr. Roosevelt and I for thirty years—and wholly apart from politics—have been close and most intimate friends. I must continue to oppose the policies which he urged at Columbus, but I cannot personally oppose him who has been my lifelong friend and for this reason I shall take no part whatever in the campaign for the Presidential nomination."

FIRST PICTURE OF THE ANNUAL MARDI GRAS AT NEW ORLEANS.

The most gorgeous feature of the annual Mardi Gras at New Orleans is the street parade which opened the festivities. With tens of thousands of loyal subjects, many of them from the far North, lining the sidewalks, the King rode through the streets at the head of the parade to City Hall, where he formally received the keys of the city from the Mayor. In the street parade were many magnificent tableaux, each representing some flower. Also depicted are the languages of the flowers.

Lake avenue residents asked that dirt excavated when the street is paved be used in filling low places in alleys and lots affected by the improvement.

TO TREAT TEETH FREE.

Infirmary for Children Planned by Institute of Dental Pedagogics.

Chicago, March 1.—A dental infirmary where children may be treated free of charge will be erected in Chicago, according to plans announced at the banquet of the Institute of Dental Pedagogics at the Hotel LaSalle.

The announcement was made by Dr. Fred W. Gethro, secretary of the society, at the close of an address by Dean Walter T. Sumner.

"It is proposed," said Dr. Gethro, "to erect in Chicago an infirmary along the lines of the $2,000,000 infirmary erected in Boston known as the Forsyth Dental infirmary, and I am pleased to announce the pledge of $5,000 by two Chicago citizens for its start.

"Ninety-five per cent. of the school children of Chicago are affected with bad teeth, and there are but three schools where provision is made for treating these children.

"In Boston, through the Forsyth infirmary, there is a building where every child in the city can be given treatment and there will be one erected in Chicago before another year has passed. One citizen pledges $2,500 if two others will do likewise, and as we have pledges from four others, we are assured of the new building."

Saturday we will let the balance of our 50c and 75c half-price neckwear go at 10c.

Watches and Prices

Good watches vary so greatly in price that some people are at a loss what to pay.

Just like paying for a house. You've all seen cottages that cost $1,000 that were "perfect little gems." And you have also seen houses that cost $20,000 to build.

Both were worth the money and even more.

It is the same in buying a watch. Decide what you want to pay; then go where you KNOW you can get your money's worth.

That place is here.

PAYS MILLIONS FOR PAINTINGS

Widener Secures Three Wonderful Canvasses by Rembrandt.

HE NOW HAS SEVEN

Philadelphia, March 1.—Three world famous paintings by Rembrandt have been added to the superb collection of P. A. B. Widener, at his home in Elkins Park, Pa. It is said that these paintings cost Mr. Widener $1,000,000. He now has seven works by Rembrandt, including "The Mills," which he bought this year for $500,000.

The three art treasures which have recently come into this country were part of the art collection of Lord Wimborne, and hung in the galleries of Cranford Manor, his country seat in Dorset. They were known to lovers of art throughout the world as thoroughly representative of the great master's genius. They are called "The Circumcision," "St. Paul" and "Portrait of a Gentleman."

The three paintings were purchased by Mr. Widener while abroad last spring through Sully & Co., of London. Mr. Widener had the Rembrandts sent to this country to be placed in his private art gallery in Elkins Park, and they were hung there in July.

It was not until recently, however, that information came from England by cable of the purchase and the name of the buyer. The acquisition of the painting, however, was verified at the home of Mr. Widener. George D. Widener, son of P. A. B. Widener, when seen at the Widener home, said:

"The three paintings are Mr. Widener's most recent art purchases, and were made by him while abroad last spring. They have been in his home here since July last, when they arrived from Europe. They were purchased from the collection of Lord Wimborne, through Sully & Co. I have nothing to say about the price paid for the pictures."

Art lovers and connoisseurs expressed surprise and delight when it became known that the valuable works of art had been brought to this country. The most recent purchase by Mr. Widener prior to that of the three portraits was the famous "The Mill," which at the present time hangs in his galleries.

All the pictures are on canvas and in a wonderful state of preservation. The scriptural piece is one that was widely copied by the master's pupils, and the picture of St. Paul is the second one known of that apostle by Rembrandt.

Nothing could be learned of the identity of "The Portrait of a Gentleman." Rembrandt painted many such as well as many studies of heads of both young and old men. Those who have seen the Widener purchase, however, agree that this particular portrait is a remarkable example of the master's art.

TOWN MOVES 18 MILES.

Whole Village Put on Wagons and Traction Engine Hauls It.

Denver, Col., Mar. 1.—The unique spectacle of the moving of a town of 200 inhabitants across the prairie to a new location eighteen miles away was recently witnessed in the northern part of Colorado in Larimer county. Bulger is that distance west of the new line of the Colorado & Southern railroad to Cheyenne, and is on no railroad. When the survey of the new branch of the Colorado & Southern railroad was made, the new town of Darby was laid out. There was nothing at Darby but prospects, while Bulger was already a thriving town, but without a railroad.

Consequently Bulger picked up bag and baggage and moved to Darby.

The moving was done by the use of traction road engines and horses, all of the buildings being placed on wagon trucks and wheeled over the frozen prairies for the eighteen miles, and then set up again on new foundations. Mr. Bulger had purchased almost the entire town site of Darby before the change was made.

SOCIETY

Of several parties this week given among a group of girlhood friends of Mrs. Carl Siemon, of Bridgeport, Conn., who is visiting here, were two today. At 1 o'clock Mrs. Joseph Lohman gave a luncheon and a dozen friends spent the afternoon visiting with Mrs. Siemon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Pickard. Pretty appointments in the way of spring flowers distinguished both companies.

Mrs. M. Lamley was honored with a delightful party yesterday afternoon given in the vestry rooms of the church by the Ladies' Hebrew Benevolent association, of which she has been an active member and officer for many years. Mrs. Aaron Rothschild, president of the society, made some remarks expressing something of the kindly feelings the whole organization has for Mrs. Lamley and the regret that all feel concerning her intended departure within a few days for New York city to live. Mrs. Lamley responded to Mrs. Rothschild's remarks in a feeling and tender manner. This society has been Mrs. Lamley's favorite, her "child," as she sometimes expressed it, for many years. It was impossible for her to speak of being severed from the work without regret and affection and so deeply touched was she by the expression of love from the society that it was with some difficulty that she expressed her thanks. The society made her a handsome gift of a gun metal mesh bag. A handsomely decorated table was arranged for the serving of refreshments and after the speeches the company partook of various delicacies. Mrs. S. Rothschild, Mrs. Julius Nathan and Mrs. E. Rosenthal were the committee in charge of the banquet. Pink and white roses and carnations used in decorating were presented to Mrs. Lamley at the close of the meeting so she went home laden with gifts and beautiful expressions of affection. There were nearly forty ladies present. Mrs. Lamley is going to make her home in New York with her daughter, Mrs. Ben Hamburger, and is planning to leave about the middle of next week. If Mrs. Elson, of New York, should arrive here to visit her sister, Mrs. S. Rothschild, Mrs. Lamley will delay her going in order to have a visit with her.

When Woman is Apt to Look Decidedly Plain

Some Outdoor Sports That Do Not Add to the Beauty of Fair Femininity.

There are many things which the modern woman has to do nowadays, and many places where she must show herself, which have the effect of making her look plain.

Skiing and tobogganing in midwinter, for instance, though exhilarating enough, are not beautifying for any length of time to any individual over fifteen years of age. The children, to be sure, with their heightened color, starry eyes and smooth skins, look like radiant cherubs. But there is no denying the fact that even the beauty is apt to acquire a beetrooty complexion after a few hours in the open, together with that harassed air which comes from looking danger constantly in the face.

Then, again, the white, uncompromising light of the high seas is not becoming to the average complexion, so that sailing or ocean traveling cannot be counted among recreations suitable for citizens who have lost the peach-like bloom of youth. The masculine person, with his harder features and more battered skin, stands the action of the winds and waves better than the feminine traveler, who, swathed in rugs and wrapped in shawls, too often looks like an invalid when aboard ship.

Yet another place which is now fatal to the good looks of women is at the doors of our theaters, which have a special brand of green electric light that makes the out-going audience assume the aspect of wan spectres. Some promising attachments have ended, and at least one pair of loving hearts has been sundered, by the uncompromising effect of these theater lights on the human visage.

Perhaps only under a chestnut tree on a velvety green lawn does woman really look at her best, though with the diabolical ingenuity of her sex, she has invented for her drawing room a system of shaded lights which are formidable weapons in the sempiternal war in which she is engaged.

Miss Katherine Kessler is now at home with the Misses Meyer, of 922 Harrison street, after a three months' illness that confined her to Hope hospital. Miss Kessler is going to Chicago as soon as she is strong enough to spend the summer with her mother.

Miss Clara Edgerton and C. E. Edgerton are now in Havana, Cuba, stopping for an indefinite time at the Hotel Trotcha. They were in Havana on February 22 when the storm that swept the country was about at its height and which was felt there by the overflow of the sea.

Miss Edna Schieferstein, of 820 West Main street, entertained the I. J. club last evening. The decorations were spring flowers, prettily arranged. Delicious refreshments were served. The members of the club are Misses Irma Wolke, Lillian Buck, Anna Luelleman, Minnie Seele, Luella Kayser, Thelma Hayden, Della Trautman and Charlotte Bollman, who will be the next hostess.

Miss Grace Barva, of Spy Run avenue, entertained an embroidery club to which she belongs on Wednesday afternoon. The guests played games instead of sewing and enjoyed afterwards an excellent dinner at 6 o'clock. Members of the club are Misses Helen Mommer, Gladys Simon, Luella Mariotte, Ruth Overhaulzer, Edna Klachn, Estella McConnell, Alice Burns.

Miss Marie Klein Miller, of Cleveland, who is to address all who care to hear her on the subject of "Children's Gardens" tomorrow afternoon at the High school auditorium, arrives in the city this evening and will be the guest of Mrs. O. N. Guildin during her stay. Miss Miller is curator of school gardens in Cleveland. The lecture she is to give will be illustrated with stereopticon slides. There is no charge for the lecture and all interested are invited to attend, especially school children.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Horstmeyer, of South Broadway, celebrated the second anniversary of their marriage on Wednesday by entertaining relatives at a dinner party. Roses were used to decorate the table and many jokes in the way of paper gifts in celebration of the anniversary were made. A large box filled apparently with paper only, but having hidden in it a small box containing a gift of money from the family, occasioned much merriment. There were present, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Horstmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. August Horstmeyer, Misses Helen Curdes and Linda Rose and Paul and Arthur Rose.

Mrs. Ben Rothschild arranged a birthday anniversary surprise for her husband last evening with the aid of a number of friends. A party of thirty men arrived at the Rothschild home about half-past 8 o'clock and proceeded to enjoy themselves to the best of their ability. An elegant suppper had been planned by Mrs. Rothschild and after a game of bridge, in which Theodore Becker won the prize, the guests did justice to the good things placed before them. Mr. Rothschild was completely surprised when the men walked into the house. They had met previously at the home of Ben Lehman so all could go together.

The usual monthly meeting of the Grandmothers' circle was held today at the Commercial club rooms with Mrs. George D. Crane as the hostess. Mrs. Crane invited the circle to a luncheon at 1 o'clock and the rest of the afternoon was spent in a social manner, the ladies busying their fingers with needlework, knitting or crocheting.

Mrs. W. B. McMaken, of South Broadway, was the house hostess for a gathering of friends of three study clubs, in honor of Mrs. I. Elwood Lane, who is going to Calgary, Canada, to live. Members of the Trave, the Sorosis and the A. O. O. clubs were those who took part in the affair which consisted of a picnic luncheon, many pretty speeches in honor of Mrs. Lane and the presentation to her of a gift of sterling silver. Piano Students' Recital.

An audience that filled Packard hall last evening gathered to hear a piano recital of students of the Boston Conservatory of Music of which Marcella Thompson is the head. All the pupils showed the results of painstaking and earnest effort and a number of them ability worth much consideration. Runs were clear and on the whole the use of the pedal was not abused. Many of the compositions played were big enough to tax the interpretative ability of far more advanced players and the fact that the execution was generally distinct was much in the favor of the young people who played. Floyd Underhill did especially well with the Rubinstein "Melody in F" and Miss Cleo Leffel, of Warsaw, played Joseffy's "To the Spring" in good tempo and natural ideas of rhythm. Edward Dubois played Chaminade's "The Flatterer" very well and the Godard's "Consolation" equally so. Miss Hilda Rohyans showed a feeling for expression that was much in her favor, so did Miss Ethel Sloan, of Warsaw, and Miss Theadora Merrick, of Milford, who played several difficult numbers. Miss Mabel Foor, of Grover Hill; Paul Milburn, of Montone, and Harry Boxberger, of this city, all came in for a share of applause and deserved praise. The closing number was a stirring rendition of Kowalski's "Salute E Poth," which was played by Messrs. Underhill, Boxberger, Myers and Thompson and which brought most enthusiastic applause.

Morning Musical Concert.

Emil Oberhoffer, conductor of the Minneapolis orchestra, which makes its first appearance here at the Majestic theater, March 20, under auspices of the Morning Musical society, is recognized as one of the foremost conductors of the day—magnetic in temperament and with a striking personality. Leading Chicago critics have credited Mr. Oberhoffer with all the virtues which go to make a Nikisch or Weingartner, and acknowledge him a musical force to be seriously reckoned with in the musical situation of this country.

FURNITURE BROCADE NOW UTILIZED BY FASHION.

At the present time the majority of women are concentrating their efforts on renovations, pending a leap into genuine spring modes. In this connection some smart banded coats, somewhat reminiscent of the Russian tunic, are noticeable.

They are fashioned of furniture brocade, are mediaeval in design and coloring and are tempered to day exigencies by a veiling of black chiffon, a further attraction being added by a touch of dark fur.

For enhancing the longevity of a black velvet or satin charmeuse skirt, but few wardrobes nowadays lacking such possessions, these coats are ideal. One was worn the other day by a very smartly gowned woman. It was relieved by a touch of pale blue, introduced in a narrow fold at the summit of a black velvet belt, the edge of the basque, sleeves and throat being defined by a band of skunk. And with this there was worn a huge black velvet hat, pressed well over the eyes and ornamented with one glorious pale blue Lancer feather.

The price of furniture brocade is a mere bagatelle, its possible roughness of texture being entirely dispelled by the black chiffon veiling, the only item in the above description representing any value being the fur. And that is by no means imperative.

Another trifling adjunct that will help immeasurably toward giving a revivifying touch to a plain coat and skirt of serge is a deep embroidered lawn or lace collar. It is quite worth while spending an appreciable sum on one of these creations since they can be turned to endless account.

The only thing to be careful about is the securing of the right shape. There was a significant clearing at the recent midwinter bargain sales, at give-away prices, of the ordinary round collars, together with those resolving into revers, these being now replaced by deep oblong shapes and others that have a capuchin suggestion.

In many instances it is the intention that these accessories shall show only at the back, while again they assume the aspect of capes or pelerines. No one who has carefully watched the course of these shoulder fitments can fail to be impressed by their importance. They are replete with conviction.

GREAT TEXTILE STRIKE ENDING

TRUSTS TO THE FRONT

Lawrence, Mass., March 1.—The end of the great textile strike involving 20,000 operatives, which began on January 12, is thought to be in sight. Many of the mills have posted notices of an advance in wages of at least 5 per cent., beginning next Monday. The advance will affect nearly thirty thousand operatives in Lawrence and vicinity.

While the Industrial Workers of the World, whose 12,000 or more members are idle, have not agreed to return under the increase as posted, it is thought that many of the strikers will return to their machines next week. The members of the industrial workers are largely unskilled. The skilled employes of the mills that are organized are members of unions, most of which are allied with the American Federation of Labor. The 5 per cent. advance granted is based on the 54 hour, or in other words the increase will be added to the wages paid for 54 hours work a week.

The strike was nominally due to a reduction in wages made under the two hours cut in time, but the struggle later developed a demand of 15 per cent in wages, the abolition of the premium system, and double pay for overtime.

A party of children who have worked in the mills and who had been requested to appear before a congressional committee in Washington tomorrow left for that city today. The delegation includes only 13 minors, four of whom are girls. Among the children, all of whom have been employed in the mills, was Carmella Peeli, 15 years old, who about a year ago, while at work lost a part of her scalp when her hair caught in the machinery.

TRUST ORDERS RAISE.

Boston, March 1.—The American Woolen company today notified its agents in all of its 33 mills in New England and New York state to advance wages 5 per cent. The order affects about 30,000 operatives.

FIFTY-SEVEN WERE DROWNED.

Get Details of Collision of Two Japanese Steamers.

Victoria, B. C., March 1.—Details of the collision between the steamers Mori Maru and Richa Maru involving the loss of fifty-seven lives were brought by the steamer Awa Maru, which arrived from the Orient yesterday. The two vessels foundered soon after the collision in the Genkai sea off Eboshi light house, Iki province, Feb. 10.

The Mori Maru, a collier of 1,788 tons, bound from Moji for Dairy, crashed into the coasting steamer Richa Maru, 1,780 tons, driving her bow into the latter vessel on the star board side amidships almost to the middle. Passengers and crew rushed to the boats and there were desperate struggles in the darkness, the lights having gone out immediately after the impact. The boats were cut away while passengers and crew were struggling into them, getting away with nine seamen and ten passengers.

The coaster sank quickly, carrying down some who clung to the rigging and the others drifted away on wreckage, 43 being drowned on this vessel. Fourteen of the collier's crew went down with their vessel. When last seen by the survivors, Captain Nishihara, of the collier was lashing himself to the bridge.

FOSTER HEARING POSTPONED.

Detective Accused of Assaulting Ryan Not in Court.

Indianapolis, March 1.—Hearing of Robert J. Foster, a detective for the National Erectors' association, on the charge of assaulting Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was deferred today until March 15 in a justice of the peace court. Attorneys for the Erectors' association said Foster was in Los Angeles, Cal., under federal subpoena as a witness in the investigation of the dynamiting conspiracy. Counsel for both sides agreed that he should be present for hearing on March 15, three days after the arraignment before federal court of Ryan and the other defendants under indictment for alleged complicity in the dynamiting plots.

ALL GIVE PLEDGE TO ABANDON FRATS

High School Pupils Come to Terms at Demand of Authorities.

THE TIME LIMIT IS UP

Without exception pupils of the Fort Wayne High school who admitted holding membership in Greek letter fraternities, which are barred from the schools by state law, have signed statements affirming that they have withdrawn from such membership.

More than this, they pledge themselves not to affiliate with any of the forbidden fraternities or sororities during their connection with the schools. This will close the incident in which the school authorities took drastic action to eliminate the "frats" from the Fort Wayne schools.

Today marked the expiration of the time limit under which pupils were given the alternative of withdrawing from the forbidden societies or of leaving school, and the members took the wise course and agreed to abandon the fraternities. They were notified some days ago that the decision must be made by March 1, and that prompt expulsion would follow a failure to comply with the law in this respect. The school board took a determined position and was prepared to defend its action in the courts, if necessary.

In a number of instances pupils have asked if they were at liberty now to organize social clubs to take the place of the "frats" and the sororities. They were informed in each case that the school authorities were not in position to give advice upon the matter, and were merely referred to the state law, which places the ban upon the secret societies in the public schools.

HAD CHANCE FOR THE SLOW MARCH

Greenwood Did Have Razor and He Knew How to Slash With It.

CITY COURT CASES

Ira Moore's talk about using a bayonet to avoid following a slow march to the cemetery was not all idle chatter as further evidence in the city court on the assault and battery case in which he and George Greenwood were the principals indicated that he did some artistic sidestepping as Greenwood had a razor and showed that he is an expert at handling it.

At the close of the hearing today Greenwood drew $10 and costs and ten days in jail and Moore secured an acquittal. The case was continued from yesterday.

The Other Cases.

Charles Rigler, a negro porter employed at the Baltes hotel, was held until tomorrow morning on a charge of burglary. He is accused of having taken $15 from the cash register in the hotel bar.

A new affidavit was filed against Harry White, charging that he abandoned his wife here, and the case was continued until tomorrow morning. He was originally arrested on a warrant from Chicago.

John Stevens, a paroled prisoner, admitted that he had been begging money around town, representing that his home had burned and left him with a large family of children. He drew $10 and costs under a vagrancy charge.

William Ryan and Tom Hennessy, two drunken tramps who spent their money for liquor and sought shelter at police station, were fined $1 and costs each.

Charles Mays and John Lee were each fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

MILK SUPPLY IS FREE FROM DIRT

Cold Weather Has Had Its Effect in Reducing the Butter Fat.

THREE TO APPEAR

Dr. George Gillie, city meat and milk inspector, has just finished an examination of fifty-six samples of milk obtained from the wagons of dairymen as they were making their rounds and he found that there was not a particle of dirt in any of them, although some were below standard.

In sixteen cases he found a deficiency of butter fat but this he attributed to the extreme cold and only three dairymen will be called to account for this deficiency.

Their samples were found so far below the required standard that they have been cited to appear and show why the condition exists and are to be informed that it must be remedied. In most instances some latitude has been allowed on account of the weather which has been extremely hard on live stock in general. The absence of dirt is a source of great satisfaction to Dr. Eric Crull, of the city health board, who has been striving for a clean supply.

MARTIAL LAW IN BEIRUT.

Military Power Restores Order in the Bombarded City.

Beirut, Syria, March 1.—Martial law, which was put into force by the military authorities immediately after the recent bombardment of this city by Italian warships, has had a salutary effect and the city is now quiet, although considerable apprehension is felt in regard to the pent-up, bitter feeling of the moslems against the Christians.

The bombardment by the Italians caused considerable damage to private property, residences suffering, besides business houses like the Ottoman, German and Salonika banks and the custom house.

EXPRESS COMPANIES GET BUSY.

Seek Federal Injunctions Against Indiana Rail Board.

Indianapolis, March 1.—Five express companies whose lines traverse Indiana today filed suit in the federal court for an injunction restraining the Indiana railroad commission from putting into effect on March 15 its order for a general reduction of express rates. The operation of the reduction order, it is alleged, would prove confiscatory of the companies' property. The plaintiffs are the American, United States, Adams, National and Wells-Fargo companies.

LEAVES CELL TO CLAIM FORTUNE.

San Quentin, Cal., March 1.—William Meyers laid aside his prison stripes here today to step out of the penitentiary gate with a parole in his pocket, free to return to Germany and claim a $75,000 estate. His five-year term for forging a check for $23 would have expired next December, but the prison directors were moved to grant a parole by his excellent conduct as a prisoner and the fact that the estate will revert to others if not soon claimed.

TRAMP, POET AND UNIVERSITY MAN

ROSE BY HIS GENIUS

Lawrence, Kan., March 1.—Harry H. Kemp, "the man in the case" in the recent divorce troubles of Upton Sinclair, is the strangest character that ever entered the University of Kansas. After "beating his way" around the world, riding the rods, working on dirty cattle ships and going through a maze of wild adventures that few men experience in a lifetime, Kemp stumbled into Lawrence, Kan., in 1906. He was down and out, a veritable hobo. Dr. William Herbert Carruth, vice chancellor of the university, evidently seeing faint beams of the diamond in the rough, aided the ragged, unkempt chap to enroll as a special student. But at first he was a nonentity. Students saw him as he dug ditches and chopped trees in a grove off the campus, but paid no heed to the uncouth laborer.

During the rosier part of his school career Kemp often spoke of his trials of the early days, and one night at a meeting of the University Press club he told the story of his entry into the university town.

"It was dark when I crawled out of a box car and crossed the Kaw river into Lawrence," he said. "I had a dime left and I spent it for chili. Then I inquired the way to the university grounds. In getting there I ran into bogs and puddles that I was never able to locate afterward. In the dusk I met a student and asked him for the residence of a certain professor I had heard about. I found the house and rang the door bell. When the faculty man answered, and when he switched on the electric light I felt small enough to crawl through a rat hole, as I was covered with mud and my clothing was in tatters.

"I told him my story and how I had made a long journey to reach the school. He plied me with doubting questions, but at last he seemed to be convinced, and told me to appear at the registrar's office next morning. When I turned to go he asked me where I intended to sleep. I answered that I wasn't at all particular—maybe at the police station or in a box car.

"Right there he did one thing that made a big hit with me. Handing me a dollar, he advised me to get a good night's sleep. I tried to persuade him to keep the money, merely to seem polite, but I was mighty glad he did not take it back.

"Down the main street I had seen a sign, 'Meals 15 cents; lodging 25.' I was soon in the first bed I had seen for a month.

"The next morning I met the registrar. I had brushed my worn suit and tried to look as respectable as possible. The registrar asked me for character references, and said if I were like most tramps he had seen I wouldn't make a desirable citizen in the university community. I laughed at him, but I liked his frankness; he was a good-natured chap. I showed him a poem I had just published in the Independent, and that landed me on the roll of the state school.

"It was a week before the spring term began. The treasurer of the school gave me a job hauling ashes, and for several days insisted that I come over to his house for my meals. When the term opened I worked during the afternoons hauling dirt with the other laborers and in that way paid my tuition. I was enrolled as a special student. But I was not a success as a worker; I talked and argued too much.

"I had no room, and I went to the Y. M. C. A. employment secretary and asked for a job that would at least afford me shelter. There was but one place open—milking a cow for my room rent. I had seen many cows and had prodded cattle on cattle ships in strange lands, but had no experience in the art of milking. I told the secretary so and he obligingly showed me how. After two hours and a half I had managed to extract about a quart of milk. Then Bossy, who had been showing signs of nervousness, kicked over the bucket and landed me in a corner. So I got another job, but it ended quickly, also owing to lack of experience. But I managed to stay it through till the end of the term, and things were better after that."

Kemp firs attracted attention in the lecture room by his knowledge of Latin and Greek and he won friends in the faculty. He wrote a story of his life for a Kansas City newspaper and bought a new suit of clothes with the proceeds. The fraternity boys at the school became interested in his tales of adventure in many lands and started the fad of entertaining him at private smokers.

During the vacation following his first term he established a hermit camp on an island in the Kaw river and stayed there all summer writing poems for eastern magazines. This attracted the attention of Kansas men of letters, and William Allen White, of the Emporia Gazette, and W. Y. Morgan, of the Hutchinson News, took him under their care.

Kemp could not keep track of his social dates next year. His persistent habit of going without a hat started the hatless fad at the university and won for him the title of "Hatless Harry," as well as that of "The Tramp Poet" and "Crazy Kemp." Those who had failed to notice Kemp, the laborer, became intensely interested in Kemp, the poet. Sorority girls and members of the exclusive clubs gave dinners in his honor and listened to his marvelous stories. He can tell some thrillers, and he was always at his best when a bevy of fair co-eds were hanging flushed and breathless on his words.

Kemp visited the Pacific coast two years ago in search of poetic material and shipped as a laborer to the lumber camps in the Gray's Harbor district to get his inspiration first hand. He was back in two days disappointed.

"I guess I'm getting too darned civilized," he sighed.

Once he visited Home Colony, a refuge for discontented theorists on an island in Puget Sound. The radical arguments of the male colonists pleased him immensely and he thought he had at last found his modern Utopia. But one morning as he took a strool down the beach he learned that the women advocated bathing in the nude. A group of up-to-date nymphs in nature's garb invited him to take a dip with them. He fled. The first boat back to Tacoma brought him as a passenger.

"I thought I had found my refuge," he grumbled, "but the women had to spoil it all. Never again for me; I'm going east."

BEATS DEATH ON HAND CAR.

Arkansas Man Reaches Sister's Bedside After Eventful Race.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 1.—From New York to Siloam Springs was the distance of a race against death which Maurice Guynes won.

Guynes was summoned home because of the dying condition of his sister, Miss Sallie. Upon arriving at Rogers he jumped into an auto and began a dash to Siloam. Near Healing Springs the motor went dead and the car was abandoned. Guynes then obtained a hand car on the Kansas City Southern road, and by working two crews of men he arrived at Siloam a short time before his sister died.

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted with the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. This liniment is for sale by all dealers.

SPOILS A "FULL HOUSE."

Raid Inopportune for One of Quartet of Poker Players.

Chicago, March 1.—Loud voices of four men who were playing poker in a room in a hotel at 710 Sherman street led to their arrest for gambling.

captured Joseph Baccash, James Abry, Isaac Agigig and A. Gassani.

"It's a shame you happened in on us then," Baccash said, after being booked. "I had a full house and might have won the pot."

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

EASY AND SURE WAY TO CURE COLDS

Don't Neglect a Cold, Ely's Cream Balm Will Stop It in the Sneezing Stage.

A cold generally attacks the weakest part, affecting the eyes and ears in some and producing nasal catarrh and throat troubles in others. A cold is due to an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and may be promptly cured with a little Ely's Cream Balm, which immediately relieves the inflammation and all the distressing symptoms, such as sneezing, coughing, running at the nose and eyes, hoarseness, sore throat, fever and headache. One reason why this pure, antiseptic Balm acts so quickly is because it is applied directly to the tender, sore surfaces.

Even in severe, chronic cases of catarrh, Ely's Cream Balm never fails to quickly and effectually check the poisonous discharge which clogs the head and throat, causing the disgusting hawking, spitting and blowing of the nose. This remedy not only drives out the disease, but heals and strengthens the weakened membranes, thus ending catarrh.

Catarrh is a filthy, disgusting disease. Don't put up with it another day. Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and see how quickly you will be relieved. It is perfectly harmless.

SUFFRAGETTES START OUTBREAK

Bullet Fired Through Window of Office and Premier's House Stoned.

CALL OUT RESERVES

London, March 1.—The suffragettes made several violent demonstrations this evening in various parts of London. One woman fired a revolver shot through the window of the colonial office. The bullet smashed the window but hurt no one. Three other women stoned the windows of the official residence of Premier Asquith, breaking three of them.

Window smashing by the suffragettes is also going on along Oxford street and Whitehall. A massive window of the Canadian Pacific railroad office at Charing Cross was shattered.

The women wreckers were scattered over a wide area. The special police reserves at Scotland Yards have been called out to deal with them.

Several shop windows in Piccadilly were smashed by women and a score or more windows were shattered in stores in the Strand. In the Haymarket, Oxford, Circus and Bond street numbers of other windows were smashed with stones and pieces of iron.

There were between fifty and sixty arrests, among them being Mrs. Pankhurst.

coal, but the trans-Atlantic lines assert that they are well provided with fuel.

Will Submit It to the Men.

The miners' delegates are now returning to their respective districts and will submit the whole position in the coal dispute to their constituents at week-end meetings and ask instructions from them how they are to deal with the new proposal of the government.

Even should the men approve of the submission of the schedule of minimum rates of wages to discussion as proposed by the government, the strike could not be arrested under a week and probably it would last another fortnight.

The shortage of coal has had already disastrous consequences on commerce. Factories are shutting down in all directions, railroads are taking off some of their trains and steamers are being laid up.

One hundred thousand iron workers will be idle in Scotland alone tomorrow as a result of the strike. The cotton manufacturers in Northeast Lancashire have coal enough to keep them going for another fortnight.

Quitting Work Everywhere.

The miners everywhere are quitting work in the best holiday humor, and there is no disposition for rioting.

Prime Minister Asquith, in a statement in the house of commons this evening describing the situation, said that the coal owners in practically the whole of England and North Wales had accepted the proposals of the government; that in South Wales and in Scotland the owners had declined the proposal, while the miners have rejected it because they were unwilling to submit the rates for a minimum wage to any form of revision. In these circumstances it was felt by the government that no useful purpose would be served at the present foment by continuing the conferences.

The premier hoped to be able to make a further statement to the house on Monday.

GOVERNMENT STILL ON TRAIL.

Trying to Recover Money Gaynor is Said to Have Got.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 1.—Attachments on the property of E. H. Gaynor, at Sandusky, Ohio, and John T. Regan, at Lorain, Ohio, were served today by the special government investigators who yesterday searched the National Bank of Commerce, at Lorain, for a lock box said to contain a part of the $2,000,000 which E. H. Gaynor's brother, Col. John F. Gaynor and Captain Benjamin D. Greene fraudulently obtained from the government in the Savannah harbor contracts prior to 1897. Regan is superintendent of the cost and interior construction company which is building an intake at Lorain and with which the Gaynors were connected.

The special investigators today admitted that they found money and securities deposited in the Lorain bank in the name of Wm. T. and Edward H. Gaynor, brothers of Col. John F. Gaynor, of Fayetteville, N. Y., although in a smaller amount than they had expected.

S.S.S. THE ONLY REMEDY FOR BLOOD POISON

S. S. S. is the one and only reliable and certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. This claim is not based on the treatment of a few cases of the disease, here and there, but its success extends over a period of more than forty years, during which time thousands upon thousands have found a cure by the use of this great vegetable remedy. S. S. S. is first of all, an absolutely perfect blood purifier, able to go down into the blood and remove every particle of the virus of Contagious Blood Poison. It cleanses and purifies the circulation, and in this way removes the cause of the trouble. Then nature, assisted by a rich, healthy blood supply, quickly renovates and renews the system, while the symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, skin eruptions, discolored splotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc., disappear, leaving the body entirely free from the effects of this insidious poison. When S. S. S. has thoroughly cleansed and purified the circulation there is no danger of any future outbreak—the blood is pure and the cause of the disease entirely removed. Home Treatment Book containing many valuable and helpful suggestions for those who are curing themselves with S. S. S., and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

PIANO STOOL SWIM AS A BEAUTIFIER

Miss Kellerman's System of Easy Indoor Exercise for Health.

THING IS DEAD EASY

New York, March 1.—All any woman needs to become healthy and beautiful is persistence, a couple of books, say Balzac's "Physiology of Marriage" and Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," and a piano stool.

Such at least is the equipment of Miss Annette Kellermann, high diver and fancy lecturer. It is the opinion of the majority that Miss Kellermann has a beautiful figure, and she told an audience of women who assembled at the Winter Garden that she enjoys perfect health.

A strong will is necessary, Miss Kellermann says, to keep one to certain regular exercises and a beauty diet.

"Most women exercise and diet for about three days, then they go back to eating six meals a day and taking no exercise at all," Miss Kellermann said. "And yet they wonder why they keep on getting fat!

"For a person who wants to reduce, meat is the worst possible food. I have not eaten meat for three or four years. I live on a diet of vegetables and salad, with occasionally a little poultry, but never any red meat.

"Two meals a day are quite enough; the first at noon, just a light repast, and the one real meal of the day at dinner time.

"A woman who wants to be beautiful and healthy should take a cup of hot water when she gets up in the morning. If she likes the taste of lemon she can squeeze a little lemon juice in the hot water unless she has a tendency to rheumatism—lemon is bad for rheumatism.

"When I say exercise and diet will make a woman beautiful and healthy," added Miss Kellermann, "I don't mean that she'll have a classical nose and gorgeous blonde hair. I mean a woman can acquire vitality, health, magnetism and symmetry."

"How?"

"By exercise. Swimming is of course the best exercise in the world for women, but I've got tired of talking about swimming in America. Here you are, a wonderful country of 90,000,000 people, and not 10 per cent. of you know how to swim."

Then Miss Kellermann proceeded to illustrate how one may "swim indoors," and this demonstration brought the piano stool into play.

Lying prone across its polished surface, holding arms and legs in the air, she worked one leg, then the other, then both together; then her arms, then arms and legs all together in the familiar frog-like one-two-three motion of swimming. This exercise is guaranteed to reduce the size of the hips.

To make the waist thinner, the diving Venus says nothing is better than joining the tips of the fingers high above the head, and then gradually touching the floor with them without bending the knees.

We are adding still more blue, black and staple suits to the half-price cabinets for the last two days of our great half-price sale.

News of the proposed change of calendars from the Chinese to the Georgian was not very well received by the Chinese residents in Manila. While realizing that many radical changes must be made in the government and in many of the institutions of the empire, still they deemed this one as coming too suddenly, and some even considered it entirely unnecessary. The Chinese New Year, the only real period of recreation and joy for them, will, by a recent proclamation of the provisional Chinese republic, be done away with, but the Manila celestials have determined to observe it as heretofore.

SHOW CLASS FOR THE TOURNAMENT

Heidelbergs Hang Up High Score and Centlivres in Good Form.

THREE MEN BEAT 200

Fort Wayne bowlers preparing for the tournament at Chicago put up some high-class bowling at the Metropolitan alley's last night when the Alt Heidelbergs beat the Centlivres in a series remarkable for the scores tabbed.

Carr, Haas and Tonkel, of the Heidelberg squad, each registered totals of better than 600 and the team rolled a total that is plenty big enough to make a showing at the big gathering. For the losing five Centlivre led with 234 for his high mark and an average of 196. Hills tabbed 223 and was second high man.

Tonkel captured the individual high mark on the Heidelberg side with 235, beating Carr just two pins. The latter, however, had the high average of 210. Haas rolled better than 200 in each of his games and was second. The scores:

SOUTH BEND HAS MONEY IN SIGHT

Within $700 of $10,000 Needed to Finance Base Ball Club.

MEETING NEXT WEEK

South Bend, Ind., March 1.—A meeting of the directors of the South Bend baseball association has been called for next Tuesday night and by that time it is believed that all of the $10,000 needed to finance the club will have been subscribed.

Late reports show that the canvass has yielded all but $700 of the sum required and only a few more days will be necessary to raise this sum in the hot finish that is proposed.

An incident occurred during the canvass that goes to show the poularity of Manager Harry Arndt with the fans the country over. While in the lobby of the Oliver hotel Arndt was stopped by E. L. Martin, a traveling salesman and a resident of St. Louis, who had seen the local leader in action as a member of the National league. When Mr. Martin learned of the canvass he called for a stock certificate and signed one with a $25 label and turned over the cold cash to Harry.

Plans for the canvass were laid by President Fred Dennis and Rudolph Horst, who prepared a list of 400 prospects. Lists of names were distributed among the committees at a recent meeting in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. No intimation of the method of campaign was allowed to reach the public, since it was believed more could be accomplished in keeping the modus operandi dark.

Leaving the Chamber of Commerce at 9 o'clock in the morning, the committee worked until noon, when they reported at the Oliver hotel for luncheon. They were then given instructions for the afternoon campaign and reported at 5 o'clock.

As a result of the support thus given the baseball association, South Bend is assured of a high-class aggregation. When the board of directors, composed of President Dennis, Secretary Horst, Treasurer D. B. J. Shafer, Judge G. A. Farabaugh and John P. McGill, began the gigantic task of again placing South Bend on the baseball map, the lack of finances placed it under a severe handicap. Not a single man had been signed up for the team and it was only through the persistent efforts of the board that it finally secured the Newark, Ohio, franchise. The next move was the picking of Harry Arndt as a manager for the team from a field of candidates, including Eddie Wheeler, Offa Neal, Phil Gener and Eddie Coffey, his release having been secured by purchase from Wilkesbarro of the New York State league. With the assistance of Arndt a deal was made whereby the services of Bates and Wetzel of the Terre Haute team were secured. Next came Coffey from Fort Wayne, followed by the purchase of Pitcher Madden of the Brooklyn Nationals. Between thirty and forty other players have since been signed and are to report to Manager Arndt about April 5 for the weeding out.

Secretary Horst is now busy booking games for an exhibition trip and his purpose is to arrange for about ten games in which to try out the men. As many of these games as possible are to be played away from home.

The committeemen of yesterday, forming the first squad, were R. H. Horst, captain; F. H. Wurzer, Harry Arndt, S. B. Robinson. The second squad was composed of John P. McGill, captain; D. B. J. Schafer, Clarence Sedgwick.

GRIFFITH DENIES A STORY.

Washington, March 1.—"Absolutely absurd," declared Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington team today, when shown the report from New York that Pitcher Walter Johnson might be traded for Hal Chase of the New York Americans. Griffith said there was not the slightest foundation for the story.

FORT WAYNE PRINTING COMPANY'S BOWLING TEAM

This team set a pretty fast pace all season in the Manufacturers' league, composed of shop teams of the city and for a time had a chance to win the pennant, but the Wayne Knits kept a long lead secured early in the action and the Printers had to be contented with second place.

The schedule of the league wound up with the games of this week and the distribution of prizes and honors will take place at once. The Printers have some consistent bowlers in the team and all of them are out for the sport and are contented if they get a good break, even if they are compelled to follow the band wagon in the pennant chase.

PEACE PACT FOR THE NEW LEAGUE

Story Comes from Cincinnati of Deal That is Said Pending.

REPORT TO BE MADE

Cincinnati, O., March 1.—A new deal in baseball whereby the new Columbian and possibly the United States leagues will come under the protection of the national agreement is intimated in a story published in the Cincinnati Times-Star today. The story which is said to be semi-official, states that Chairman August Herrmann of the national baseball commission, would present the matter to that body for official consideration. It is in part:

"A new deal in baseball whereby the men who have been trying to break into the baseball limelight will come in as auxiliaries and warm friends of the old magnates is under way and under fair discussion.

"The angles are: Utilization of the ball parks in the one-club cities of the major leagues for the younger league games during the absence of the senior teams.

"Acceptance of a club on the north side of Chicago balanced by the withdrawal of the Junior league from St. Louis.

"The new league to have a chance at the extra players who are now turned back by the magnates. The new league to be run and managed wholly by its own promoters."

FINDLAY HERE SATURDAY.

What promises to be a hotly contested game will take place at Concordia gym, Saturday evening when the Moreseot basketball five of Findlay, O., clash with the local students. Findlay has played some of the crack teams of Ohio and has established an enviable record and ought to put up a strong game. Concordia defeated the club last year in a close contest, but Findlay has strengthened considerably and expects to turn the tables this time. The Concordia Juniors will clash with the Company D five of this city.

NEW PLAYERS SIGNED UP.

South Bend, Ind., March 1.—Shortstop Anderson, last season with Syracuse of the Eastern league and Wilkesbarre of the New York State league, today signed with South Bend of the Central league. Pitcher Kaiserling, last season with Champaign, Ill., has also signed a contract. He won twenty-four of twenty-eight games in the Missouri-Illinois Trolley league last season.

CLYDE IS MOVING UP A BIT.

Dayton, O., March 1.—Ely Clyde, former Dayton pitcher, who was sent to the South Atlantic league last season, took a new lease on his baseball career, evidently, as he has been sold to the Baltimore club of the International league.

FRIARS AT WABASH.

The Friar basketball team left this afternoon for Wabash to take on the Athletic basketball squad of that city.

BADE TO TRY PITCHER.

Bill Donahue Recommended Him to Quincy Manager.

Springfield, O., March 1.—Christie Kearns, a local pitcher, who twirled one game for the Reapers last season, is to be given a tryout with the Quincy, Ill., team the coming season. He will make the fourth home player who is a member of that team, the others being Bill Donahue, Frank Donahue and Pepper Clark.

Kearns was recommended by Bill Donahue and thereby hangs a story. When Springfield was in the Central league before and Bade Myers was manager of the Canton club, Bill recommended Joe Dunn, the local catcher. Bade shook his head and Joe signed with Evansville. He made good fro mthe jump and since then Bade has had the greatest respect for Bill Donahue's judgment.

DECATUR PLAYS GOOD GAME.

Expects to Defeat Local Hi at Smart School Gym Tonight.

Decatur High School basketball boys have the reputation of playing a pretty stiff game and they will be here tonight to meet the Fort Wayne Hi at the gym in the James H. Smart school on Pontiac street. The Fort Wayne players know they have a tough proposition and they have been practicing and getting into shape for the go.

In the preliminary the Lyceum A. A. will play the second team of the high school.

WILL MANAGE FROM BENCH.

Bill Phillips of Youngstown, is the only manager who is certain not to get into the game actively. He used to be a good pitcher, but his playing days are over. Billy Gilbert may play second for Erie, but it is hardly likely that he will, as he is getting old to speak brutally, but directly. He may be classed as the bench managers.

TAKES ON THE UNIVERSITY.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 1.—Manager Aggie Grant has agreed to give the Indiana university a game during the training season and it will be played either April 13 or 14.

IS NOT HOLDING OUT.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 1.—Duke Servatius is not holding out. He is satisfied with the terms offered him but he lost the contract and had to write for a new one.

DELAHANTY KEPT DIRT OFF SHIRT

Didn't Slide Because He Feared He Would Soil His Uniform.

M'ALEER LET HIM GO

St. Louis, Mo., March 1.—Jim Delehanty five years ago wore the uniform of the St. Louis Browns and was "asleep at the switch" most of the time. Manager McAleer "tin-canned" Jamie for failing to slide on a play at the plate. The run would have won the game for the Browns. Delahanty strolled home as though he didn't care whether he was put out or not. Instead of sliding, he walked into the catcher and allowed himself to be tagged out.

"Why didn't you hit the dirt?" demanded Manager McAleer when Delahanty returned to the bench.

"He had me dead to rights," replied Delahanty, "and I couldn't see any use of soiling my clean flannel suit."

"Mother, mother, mother, pin a rose on me," roared McAleer. "First man who offers me a waiver will get you."

A week later Joe Cantillon came to town with the Washington team and Jim was passed along to the Nationals.

Bob Hedges tells a good one on the late Edward J. Delahanty, the slugging brother of the famous Jim. Ed Delahanty was the greatest baseman of his time.

"One day Ed Delahanty was playing first base for the Washington team against the Browns," said Mr. Hedges. "We had a man on first base and Dick Padden was at bat. Dick tried to sacrifice the runner along and tapped a roller to Delahanty. Ed scooped up the ball and tried to tag Padden, who backed away from the first sacker. Padden was out when he turned around and started back towards the plate, but Delahanty forgot all about the rule and chased Dick. In the meantime Emmet Heidrick, who was on first, kicked up the dust sailing for second. When he saw Delahanty trying to tag Padden he turned second and moved over to third. The Washington players rushed in and roared at Delehanty, but Eddie forgot all about the rules and played hide and seek with Padden until the umpire interfered and chased Dick to the St. Louis bench. When Delehanty realized what a foolish play he had pulled off he became so disgusted that he refused to play any longer. Manager Tom Loftus begged him to stick in the game, but Eddie was stubborn.

"I intend to fine myself one day's pay for pulling that 'boob' play," said Eddie as he hiked for the Washington club's bus. The fine amounted to something, for Delehanty was drawing $2,000 per month at the time. Ed was one of the highest priced men in the American league that season."

PITCHER HAS THE MUMPS.

St. Louis, Mo., March 1.—Manager Bresnahan will leave for West Baden with the Cardinals and open the spring training. Practically the entire squad has reported with the exception of Pitcher Bob Harmon, who is confined to his home with the mumps and Third Baseman Mike Mowrey, a holdout.

SUMMERS IS HOLDING OUT.

Louisville, Ky., March 1.—Rudolph Summers, formerly a pitcher in the Central league, has refused to sign a contract sent him by the Nashville management.

KNOLL SURE HIS VETS WILL SHOW

Confident That He Can Hold a Good Position in the Flag Race.

NEED OF PITCHERS

Dayton, O., March 1.—"There isn't any reason why Dayton shouldn't be in the race for the Central league pennant right from the start, but it is anyning but an easy proposition to dope that race. Dark horses are plentiful."

This is the gist of a statement made by Manager Punch Knoll, leader of the champion Dayton team of 1911. Knoll is now at headquarters in the cash register city. He has pulled off his coat and started to work.

"Our outfield, with DeHaven, Wickland and myself and several youngsters, look as strong as any on the circuit, and maybe it will prove to be a little better. In Benson and Debard we have the making of an other first-class infield. I like nothing but the best of Rochewitz as a first baseman; he and Harriet should put up a fine fight for the regular position. With Konnick, Tieman and Barton scheduled to do the catching there is no reason for any worry in that department."

Manager Knoll admits that the pitching department will require close attention, but he expects it to round into condition and be up to the standard.

"Fans know that Otey and Fromholtz will hold up their end in fine style. Olmstead looks like a good man in the few games he pitched last season," continued the Vet commander. "Case and Christopher are expected to prove strong additions, and Fisher may work back to his best form."

CONVICTED OF BEING AN UMPIRE

St. Louis, March 1.—"How'd you like to be the umpire?" was the title of a song that fell from the syncopating pen of one of the great American dramatists. The question was asked but never answered.

But now comes Garnett C. Bush, a St. Louisan, who deposes that the life of the indicator is rough—with a bold face to it.

Bush, not yet 28 years old, has been graduated into the National league and holds the unique distinction of being one of the youngest men ever honored with a permanent berth in the parent body. He won his position on merit. He earned his spurs during seven years' service in the "bush" leagues. Now he is regarded as one of the "finds" of the decade.

The question naturally arises: Is Bush an umpire? There have been men who held the indicator in the big league who were undertakers, clerks, blacksmiths, ball players and anything but umpires. However, Bush is essentially an umpire. He has been convicted of being one and that's evidence beyond doubt.

Yes, Bush has a "criminal" record which proves conclusively that he is a good umpire. Looking back over his tempestuous career in the minor league one sees that the St. Louis man has been "jugged" no less than four times and in each case he was tried and found guilty of being an umpire—a fearless umpire.

To enlighten the reader on this subject it would be well to state that in the minor leagues there are such things as "homers," the same being umpires who always favor the home club. Bush never was and is not a "homer." He rendered his decisions as he saw them, without fear of man or police force.

What was the result?

Not infrequently he was arrested and put in jail. Up in Keokuk, Iowa, one day about five years ago Bush was called upon to give a hard decision on a play at the plate. The tieing run for the home club was coming in in the tenth inning. A relay from the outfield was made perfectly and the ball beat the runner coming from third by a hair's breadth.

"You're out!" shouted Bush.

"You're a thief!" roared the fans.

There was a riot. The police force, who was sitting back of the home club's bench, came on the field and took the first punch at Bush. Then he hustled the umpire off to jail.

"When I reached the jail," says Bush, "I had on my mask and protector. A pair of yeggs were sitting in the cell that I also was to occupy. One of them said to me: 'What they got on you, pal?'

"'I'm an umpire,' I told him.

"'Well, you're in bad,' was the reply.

"I was arrested down in Texas another time for appearing on the street. The previous day I had 'chased' six of the home players for some reason or other. When I left the hotel they took me in tow. They put me in jail at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and kept me there until 7:30 that evening. They charged me with being an umpire. There was no law on the statutes which made such a crime punishable, so they turned me loose. That night a white man shot down a negro and the policeman on the beat bought him a drink.

"I have passed a few other nights in the city 'jugs' for giving decisions as I saw them, even though they did hurt the home club's chances, but that's all in the game."

The Place to Save Money

COAST CORDIAL TO JOHN COLLINS

Good Positions and Kind Treatment Come to Ex-Convict There.

HE FORGETS TROUBLES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 1—The world is not such a cold place after all for men who have worn the stripes of a murderer. John Henry Collins, former student of the University of Kansas, has found that out. Four years ago Collins was pardoned from the penitentiary by Governor Hoch. Now he has a responsible place in the commercial world and is well established in the social world as well.

Immediately after being released from prison, where he was sent upon conviction of murdering his father, James S. Collins, of Topeka, Collins came to California. He had been preceded by his stepmother and his sister, Grace Collins. The Sunday following his arrival in Los Angeles Collins went to Westlake park, where the municipal band was giving a concert. Collins, who had played a cornet in the prison band at Lansing, made known his talent to the bandmaster and filled the place made vacant by the resignation of a musician. That furnished him employment three afternoons a week.

A Friend Aided Him.

Then a friend from Lawrence, Kan., where Collins had attended the university, offered to get him a position as solicitor for the Los Angeles Times. In that capacity Collins canvassed various residence districts for subscriptions. While engaged in this occupation he read an advertisement for a clerk wanted at the exclusive tourist hotel, the Hollywood. Mrs. Collins telephoned a friend living at the hotel with the result that Collins got the place of night clerk out of fifty applications for the position. But it was night work and before long he exchanged it for day clerk in the Rosslyn hotel, in the business district in Los Angeles. But Collins was popular at the Hollywood, and when the position of steward became vacant he went back to that hotel, where he remained until December 1 of last year, when a necessary curtailment of the force left him without a position.

He made application to the superintendent of Harvey eating house system at Los Angeles and was assigned to take charge of the eating house at Winslow, Ariz., to which place he went three weeks ago.

Former Kansans Befriended Him.

Collins has mingled freely with the former Kansas residents and when his duties permitted he has attended the dinners and picnics given by the Kansas state society and the Alumni association of the University of Kansas. The family live in a comfortable bungalow, in front of which is a well kept lawn, adorned with shrubbery and semi-tropical plants.

"John has done well here, and we are contented, save that we wish our friends were here to share the beauty and restfulness of the life in this delightful climate," Mrs. Collins said. "But there are many Kansas people here and we see them often, and often visitors come from 'back home.' Only this morning Mrs. Hoch, wife of ex-Governor Hoch, called up to say that she was passing through and that she hoped to see us before she finally returned east. We were great friends, and the man that Governor Hoch's daughter married lived at our house in Topeka for many years.

Enemies Busy, Mrs. Collins Says.

"We have many friends in Topeka and I suppose some enemies. Some of these have been busy with the circulation of a report that John and I had been married. Why, John is only 32 years old and I am 70. That ought to be sufficient answer to that report. John has been interested in a young woman here, whether to the extent of contemplating marriage I don't know. He has done well out here.

"Not a day passes that I do not utter a prayer to God that the real murderer of my husband may be discovered before I die. John did not kill his father. Why, if Grant (Mrs. Collins' son by her first marriage) had not been able to account for all of his time for a week preceding the murder he would have been formally accused of the crime, and I believe that if it had not been for the marks on my neck and back I would have been charged with it. John has done some indiscreet things, but there was nothing that should have fastened this guilt upon him. But we are living our own happy way out here, away from publicity and clamor. I spent practically all my money defending the case against John, but we are comfortable and contented, and so I live on, always hoping, always praying, always believing that before I die that all doubt will be removed from every mind that my husband was killed by his son."

The Rurode Dry Goods Company

NEW DODGE TO OBTAIN LIQUOR

Cars Routed Through Dry Territory Emptied at Icing Depots.

LAW AIDS EVASION

Muskogee, Mich., March 1.—The decision of the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis forbidding the introduction of intoxicating liquors for any purpose into what formerly was Indian Territory, now the east half of Oklahoma, and the home of the Five Civilized Tribes, has developed ingenious schemes to evade the law. An odd one was lately discovered by the agents of a railroad.

A carload of liquor, billed from Fort Smith, Ark., to Kansas City, Mo., was routed in a roundabout way and delivered by one railroad to another at Arkansas City, Kan. The car was hauled to Kansas City, firmly sealed, but when delivery to the consignee was attempted the car was empty—not even a cork was in sight.

The railroad agent was puzzled and prepared for a demand for damages from the consignee. The agent delivered the freight bill with the explanation that as the car was empty it would be proper to file a claim for the loss. To the agent's surprise, the consignee gave him a check for the full amount of freight and told him that there would be no claim for shortage.

The railroad company, in the meantime, has assigned one of its best detectives to the task of learning what had become of the carload of liquor. Before he reported a second car of liquor—also empty—was received and the freight bill paid without protest. A third car came before the detective reported.

When the detective returned he told an unusual story. He had learned that the waybill issued at Fort Smith had been marked: "Stop at Muskogee for ice." The liquor was intact when the car reached Muskogee; it is thought to have been missing when it left that city.

The cleverness of the trick lies in the fact that the consignment to Kansas City, according to law, is an interstate shipment and cannot be molested by Oklahoma officers during transit through this state. Nor was there prohibition of the car being stopped for icing. As an interstate shipment, the liquor could not be refused by the railroad company, though it would be in violation of law to carry liquor to points in old Indian Territory.

There is humor in the fact that when the shipments were made to Kansas City with icing instructions, blizzard weather prevailed in Oklahoma.

REVISION IS POSTPONED

Electric Relief Union Puts Action on Constitution and By-Laws.

EXCURSION TO BE SETTLED BY VOTE

Electricians Will Decide the Question Early—The Railways.

The report of the committee on revision of the constitution and by-laws of the Relief union of the Fort Wayne Electric works, which was presented at the meeting of the union last night, was laid aside for consideration after M. W. Alexander's visit. Mr. Alexander is chairman of the Thomson-Houston Mutual Benefit association, of West Lynn, Mass., which has a membership of over 5,000, and is said to be the best conducted and most prosperous association of its character in the world. The local relief union want to consult Mr. Alexander about some of the proposed changes in the constitution and as he is due here next week, action on the committee's report has been postponed until the following week. The Thomson-Houston Mutual Benefit association divides its members into thirty-eight classes, with a maximum membership of 150 each, but it pools the death benefit, taking the money to satisfy such claims out of the general fund. The association pays a sick benefit of $6 to male and $5 to female members and the death benefit is $100. The association has recently installed new features in the form of an emergency fund and a loan fund for the benefit of unfortunate members. The maximum amount of the loans are $25, but this is to be increased to $100. The General Electric company is in a way the financial backing of the relief department at Lynn. The Relief union of the Fort Wayne Electric works has been most successful in its work and it is expected to broaden the field and be able to do much more good when the changes now proposed have been made and put in force. At the meeting last night the annual excursion question also came up for discussion. It was decided to submit the matter of excursion point to the members of the association and a vote will be taken next week. Toledo, Cedar Point, Bawbees and Maxinkuckee each have their advocates, but it is impossible to guess accurately upon the result of the vote.

PENNIES GROW INTO DOLLARS

Public School Children in Kansas Have Bank Savings.

ARE TAUGHT THRIFT

Kansas City, March 1.—By depriving themselves of "all-day suckers," dill pickles, licorice sticks, candy, nickel shows and other luxuries, the school children of Kansas City, in a little more than ten years, have saved approximately $27,000. The money now is in the Missouri Savings association bank to their credit in amounts ranging from 50 cents, the smallest sum permitted, to $300.

More than ten years ago the board of education, believing that the saving idea was a good thing to inculcate into the minds of the children, permitted the savings system to be adopted into the schools. The bank issues stamps in denominations of 1, 2, 5, 10 and 25 cents. At a certain time each day teachers open "savings bank" accounts. Children who have been given two pennies to spend that day may save one of them, or those who have 5 cents may save 2 cents. Others, if they have the money to spare, and care to, may buy stamps of larger denomination.

Want No Misers.

Each is issued a book on which is their name. When that book has in it the equivalent of 50 cents in stamps, a child can open a savings account with the bank. As other 50 cent books are filled, the amount is deposited to their credit.

"We never try to induce a boy or girl to save all the spending money they have," said C. A. Middaugh, assistant cashier of the bank, who looks after the fund. "We don't want them to become misers. The idea is to teach them that they can do without just a little of the luxury they expect and save the rest. For instance, if a boy had 5 cents he might be told to spend 3 cents, have a real live boy's time on it, but to save the other 2 cents. The object is to instill into the children the habit of saving and to teach them what can come of saving just a portion of the money they otherwise would spend needlessly."

All of the savings accounts were not made up of pennies and nickels, which might have gone for little luxuries, but, said Mr. Middaugh, in some instances it represented money saved when it should have been spent for necessities. Then he recalled the story of Michael Altman, 14 years old, a boy who started his account while a pupil at the Irving school.

"Michael now has $10 or more with the bank," said Mr. Middaugh, "and he has earned all of it himself by real hard work, and, I believe, depriving himself of absolute necessities and many little pleasures other boys have. He saved it all working at grocery stores, running errands and doing anything he could get to do on Saturdays and evenings after school.

"But the boy has a motive in saving. His father also has an account. When the father came here he saved until he brought Michael over here from torturing, persecuting Russia. Now father and son are saving to bring over the mother and little brother.

"They talked the matter over and decided that it never would do to bring the mother over first and leave the boy over there alone, so the chances are they soon will pay his passage over to Kansas City. Then all three will go to work and save as hard as they can to bring mother over. The father is a shoemaker and Michael is a splendid boy made of the right kind of stuff.

Boy Makes a Sacrifice.

"Of course this boy makes a sacrifice, far more than do any of the other children, for the chances are he saves all his money. But many of the children have snug little accounts, just saved at odd times, which they never would have had but for this system. Some of the boys and girls have been saving their money for a higher education, and they will get it, too."

Prof. C. B. Reynolds, principal of the Garfield school, is a member of the committee which looks after the school savings.

"The average weekly deposits at my school," said Prof. Reynolds, "are from $25 to $30 a week. Since school opened in September the children of the Garfield school alone have saved about $500, all of which means fewer 'all-day suckers,' dill pickles and nickel shows and better digestion and morals. And at the same time they acquire the saving habit without being taught to be misers."

Prof. Reynolds said that at first it was deemed useless to try to start saving accounts in the kindergarten department, but that now the "wee ones" at his school average $1 a week in savings.

Plans are again being discussed to make Paris a port and possibly the greatest in Europe. The idea is to connect the French capital with the Atlantic ocean by means of a ship canal to Rouen.

SUED FOR $100,000.

CLARENCE S. FUNK.

Edward Hines, the wealthy lumber dealer whose membership in the Union League Club of Chicago was cancelled, has brought suit against Clarence S. Funk for $100,000 in the Circuit Court.

Mr. Funk, who is general manager of the International Harvester Company, testified before the Senatorial committee in the Lorimer inquiry that Hines told him he had "put Lorimer over" and had requested that the Harvester Company contribute $10,000 to the expenses of the election of the Senator.

PAPERS IN PANAMA AFFAIR DEMANDED

Senate Adopts Resolution Calling on President for Documents.

WILL INVESTIGATE IT

Washington, March 1.—The senate today adopted a resolution calling on President Taft to submit to it all the correspondence with Colombia, dealing with the acquisition of the Panama canal zone by the United States. The resolution was offered by Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, who suggested its adoption in a speech in which he charged former President Roosevelt with participation in a conspiracy to foment the revolution by which Panama was lost to Colombia and the canal zone became the property of this country. There was no division on the vote of an adoption.

Hitchcock's Speech.

"The conspiracy which resulted in the dismemberment of the Colombian republic occurred in the United States with the approval of the highest United States officials, and the spoliation was largely in the interest of a combination of influential capitalists who controlled the French Panama Canal company," declared Senator Hitchcock in the senate today. Mr. Hitchcock was speaking in support of his resolution. From this, he said, he expected the people would know "whether we are honest and just, and whether the time has not come when we should act the part of decency, if not generosity towards Colombia."

The senator assailed the Washington government's course and referred to what he said was a blunt declaration of ex-President Roosevelt, in a speech recently delivered in California, that he "took the canal zone."

Cannot Hide It.

"It is not possible," he said, "to lock up in official archives the sensational and disgraceful record of our treatment of Colombia, our breach of solemn treaty, our instigation of an insurrection, our spoliation of a weak sister republic."

It was too late to restore Panama to Colombia, he declared, because the United States' title to the Panama canal and through the influence of the United States the existence of the Panama republic were settled for all time by international agreement. He believed, however, that justice would not be done until the canal controversy had been reopened and Colombia's claims against this government for damages had been settled by diplomatic arrangement or through arbitration.

Washington, March 1.—"If I had my way I'd make it a penal offense for any mother to put a tooth brush in the mouth of a child," declared Representative Cyrus Sulloway, of New Hampshire, today at a hearing before the District of Columbia committee on a bill to regulate dentistry. Representative Sulloway denounced the use of the tooth brush vigorously and lauded the good old days of tobacco chewing and dipped snuff.

ROOSEVELT HOSTS HERE TO PLAN FIGHT

later meeting. However, that is a matter for our friends here to decide alone."

Wearing "Teddy" Button.

Mr. Doudican declared that he had found the Roosevelt sentiment unquestionably strong over the state among republicans, and he is firmly of the opinion that a vast majority of the voters of the party want Mr. Roosevelt nominated.

The new Roosevelt button was given an introduction into Fort Wayne by Mr. Doudican today. It is a black button, bearing across its face in letters of red the single word "Teddy."

Republicans from the upper counties invariably brought reports of a preponderance of Roosevelt sentiment among members of the party there, but said that in almost every instance the party organization was either strongly for Taft or artfully attempting to maintain a neutrality in the present contingency.

"In our county we hope to convince them that the people want Roosevelt," said Harry Brown, of DeKalb. "And if they do not listen now, they will have to do so a little later," added J. A. Provines, of the same county.

Allen is Represented.

In all there were a total of something like twenty Allen county republicans in attendance at the meeting, among them being W. C. Geake, E. P. Bailey, Charles Preble, F. J. Ruhe, Charles S. Bash, Dr. W. D. Calvin, David Beard, Oscar Boulton and John F. Oswalt.

Lee J. Hartzell, of this city, was selected to preside over the meeting, with J. E. Buchanan, of Auburn, as secretary. Among those who addressed the meeting were Mr. Hartzell, Mr. Doudican, Mr. Frisinger, of Angola, Hon. J. N. Babcock, E. V. Harris and C. S. Bash.

Need All the Votes.

All of them made strong addresses favoring the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt, but Mr. Bash and Mr. Harris, particularly, counselled moderation. "There is no use trying to dodge the fact," said Mr. Harris, "that a lot of republicans who have worked with us in the past are not here today. We need them, and we want to conduct such a campaign that after Roosevelt is nominated they will all fall in line."

David Beard, of Eel River township, offered the motion that the Roosevelt men refuse to vote for any man as national delegate who would not declare himself unequivocally for Roosevelt, and the motion was carried with applause.

In attendance at the meeting were a number of members of the Allen county central committee from the country precincts. Many of the representatives, particularly from the country precincts, declared that the republican farmers, almost to a man, were opposed to Taft.

Says Steuben Wants Teddy.

One of the Roosevelt republicans who arrived early for the meeting was A. Frisinger, a druggist at Angola, who came to the city last night, and declared himself enthusiastically for the nomination of the former president.

"I know from personal investigation," said Mr. Frisinger today, "that an overwhelmingly large majority of Steuben county republicans are in favor of Roosevelt's nomination, and I propose for my own part to do all I can to bring about that result. We do not propose to make a fight on the Steuben organization, which is pro-Taft, but we are going to perfect a Roosevelt organization that hopes to be able to do things to assist in his nomination."

Mr. Frisinger is a former member of the republican central committee in Steuben county.

Mr. Hartzell Didn't Know.

Former County Chairman L. J. Hartzell, who is one of the Fort Wayne republicans who is out in square-toed fashion for Roosevelt's nomination, declared this morning that he had not been advised regarding who would be in attendance at the meeting or what action was contemplated.

"I am talking only for myself," said Mr. Hartzell. "You can take it from me that I will be there, but I am not attempting to answer for anybody else."

WHEN A WOMAN WON'T SHE WON'T

But That Isn't the End of It in the Case of Miss Hogan.

FACES A JAIL TERM

Chicago, March 1.—Miss Hazel Hogan has been sentenced to six months in jail, and when that is served she must work out a fine of $1,750 in the house of correction. She may pay the fine if she can, but as she has alienated all her relatives and friends, the prospects for payment are not bright.

Miss Hogan has become involved in all this trouble because she refused to testify against four men who robbed her of $1,750. The principal in the robbery, Dr. Irvine Sesinger, a dentist, confessed, as did two others, but the confessions had no effect on the attitude of Miss Hogan. She refused to take the stand and admit that she was robbed.

However, it availed the robbers nothing, for they were convicted without her testimony.

In court she threatened to "punch" Prosecutor Burnham's face and called him a liar while he was addressing the jury.

The motive for her stand was found by the police in the belief that she was engaged to be married to Dr. Sesinger just prior to the robbery. She cared nothing for the others, but if she testified against Sesinger's companions he would fare even worse than they.

"Show Me," Said Doctor.

Miss Hogan is 47 years old, broad, stout and stubborn. Dr. Sesinger had a precarious practice in the ghetto district of the west side. His office was in South Halstead street. Previous to last July he had been paying some attention to Miss Hogan. She frequently visited him at his office and told her friends that she and the dentist were engaged. The question of matrimonial expenses was discussed. Miss Hogan said she had $1,750 in currency. The dentist affected to believe that she did not have that much.

"I wouldn't believe until I saw it," he is quoted as saying.

Miss Hogan said she would "show him." She selected the night of July 17 to make the display. She loaded her stockings with bills until they bulged like a python that had swallowed a goat, and called upon Dr. Sesinger at his office and "showed him." It was 10 p. m.

She had placed the $1,750 back in her stockings and was discussing honeymoon affairs with the dentist when the door suddenly was thrown open and two men with masks presented revolvers at the heads of the pair and ordered them not to move or speak. One man handed his weapon to his companion and then produced some rope and tied Miss Hogan hand and foot and roped her down on the couch upon which she was sitting. Dr. Sesinger was ordered to a table and he was tied prone upon it.

The Robbery.

The robbers appeared to know just where the loot was located. They unhitched Miss Hogan's stockings from the rubber superstructure and fished out the $1,750. When she voiced her protest one of the men gagged her with a towel. They also took the dentist's watch and his bank roll, $1.19. Then they departed with a "good night."

Some time later the dentist unfastened himself and then freed Miss Hogan. She was highly excited and started to inform the police. Sesinger objected, and said the best way to get the robbers was to hire private detectives. Miss Hogan would not hear of it and rushed to a police station. Two days later Dr. Sesinger was arrested, to Miss Hogan's great surprise and consternation.

The dentist, subjected to the "third degree," confessed and implicated Curtin R. Young and Jerry Mack. Young was arrested and in his possession was found $1,000. None of the money was found on Mack.

James Hogan, no relation to the unfortunate spinster, was arrested on Young's confession. It is understood that he was to have had a share for watching and "shooing" prospective callers away from the Sesinger office while the ceremonies were in progress. He also made a confession, it is stated.

Miss Hogan appeared at the preliminary examination and testified against the men, and they were held in heavy bonds for the criminal court. The trial was set for last November.

Her Lips Sealed.

A subpoena was issued for Miss Hogan, but she could not be found at the time. Later she was located in Detroit, but she refused to come to Chicago and testify in the case. She was brought back a prisoner by the requisition process.

The trial was then set for December 20. When Miss Hogan was called she refused to testify. Judge Honore adjudged her in contempt of court and sentenced her to jail. That was December 22. Five times she has been called into court since, but each time she has stubbornly maintained silence. The fourth refusal brought a fine of $1,750, to prevent her from recovering the amount she lost. The court suspected that she might have been offered full restitution if she would not testify.

Her sisters, cousins and aunts had labored with her in vain to induce her to yield. Her sister even appealed to Father P. J. O'Callaghan to use his influence. The priest twice called upon her in her cell and used all his eloquence and priestly power, but to no effect. Miss Hogan said she would not testify against Dr. Sesinger. She refused to give any explanation for her attitude.

Faces Years in Jail.

The latest chapter in the affair was the sentence of the woman to six months in jail for contempt. After the expiration of this term she must work out her fine of $1,750 in the house of correction at 50 cents a day—a matter of nine years and seven months.

Before pronouncing sentence Judge Honore asked her if the $1,000 that was recovered belonged to her. She made no answer. Then he ordered the money impounded.

The theory of the police is that Miss Hogan has again fallen under the influence of Dr. Sesinger and that he has promised to marry her if he is freed. She knows he has confessed that the robbery was a "frame up" and that he was the principal. Her relatives have abandoned her. She has an attorney and he says he will appeal from the fine and jail sentence, but will first endeavor to obtain a writ of error.

Judge Honore has ordered the trial of Sesinger and his robber friends to proceed without Miss Hogan's testimony. Three confessions were read as evidence, and the police produced many corroborative facts. The evidence of Miss Hogan at the preliminary examination also was submitted.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

We submit the following as our ideas of the probabilities under Fulton's Renal Compound in Bright's and kidney disease: Where patients are seriously weakened and crisis may be expected in from ten to twenty days probably not more than ten per cent to twenty per cent respond. Where physicians aid by holding up the heart, increasing the eliminations, etc., the efficiency can be increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life we look for correspondingly better results.

Where patients do not wait until bedridden we believe three-fourths can be controlled and that in cases that take the treatment on the appearance of the disease that nearly nine out of ten will respond with final recovery or prolongation of life.

Albumen, casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and recuperative powers are too greatly weakened.

Fulton's Renal Compound is used both with and without physicians' prescriptions. The motive of the Renal Compound being to relax the kidney (the Old School having nothing to reduce inflamed kidneys) it will be seen that the heart, eliminative and tonic treatment usually prescribed in Bright's and kidney disease do not conflict but are often required in extreme cases. It can be had at the D. & N. Pharmacy.

We desire patients not improving the third week to write us. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery, San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

HE WILL "ROT IN JAIL FIRST"

Mr. Cooper Doesn't Propose to Pay Third Wife a Penny.

COURT SAYS HE MUST

Topeka, Kan., March 1.—John G. Cooper, 63 years old, one of Topeka's wealthiest citizens and her most persistant seeker for matrimonial happiness, is going to jail rather than pay $10,000 for the use of his wife in supporting their child. And he says he will "rot in jail" before he will pay a single penny by which his wife might be benefited.

The Kansas supreme court has just held that he must either pay or go to jail, and he must also pay a fine and heavy court costs.

A year ago Cooper's third wife brought suit for divorce and alimony and then Cooper brought cross-petition and asked for a divorce. He told on the witness stand during the trial how he was debating over the selection of one woman out of seven furnished by a matrimonial bureau, to be his fourth wife as soon as the legal obstacles were removed. But the court refused to grant either Cooper or his wife a divorce. It also refused to give Mrs. Cooper any property but decreed certain lands should be held in trust for used for the education and maintenance of the child.

But Cooper was not able to figure out how he was going to support that baby without the mother's obtaining some benefits from the money, so he simply refused to pay. Then the district court of Shawnee county ordered Cooper arrested and sent him to jail for contempt in his refusal to obey the order for the payment of the revenue from the property for the child.

"Why don't you support your child?" asked the court of Cooper before the sentence was passed.

"I'll Rot in Jail First."

"I am perfectly willing to support my baby, if you will give her to me to care for, but I will not contribute one cent to the support of the mother," said Cooper to the court.

"The child has been given to the mother and you have certain rights to go and see her any time you wish without disturbing the mother. I think the mother is the best custodian and there the child will remain and you must provide the mother with funds to support the child," replied Judge A. W. Dana of the district court.

"I'll rot in that old jail first," was Cooper's rejoinder.

The court then fined Cooper $100 and the costs in the case, ordered the transfer of the property to the trustees for the Cooper baby and then sent Cooper to jail until the fine and costs were paid and the property transferred. Cooper spent three hours in jail one afternoon last summer while his lawyers were preparing the papers in an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the supreme court. The writ was granted and Cooper was released until the case could be heard on its merits. The supreme court has just handed down its decree, and it was that Cooper would have to go to jail unless he paid the fine and costs and turned over the property ordered given to his child by the court.

He is a Great Land Proprietor.

Cooper owns several thousand acres of as fine farm land as there is in Kansas and he owns considerable Topeka business property. His home faces the Kansas state house and the old tumble-down shack occupies the land worth from $30,000 to $40,000. Cooper is now negotiating for the building of a 10-story office building on the site and may tear down his residence.

Cooper has had a checkered matrimonial career. He and his first wife were married when he had only enough money to pay the preacher and the probate judge. They lived on an Osage county farm and by industry and frugality amassed a fortune in a little over twenty years.

When Cooper's boys reached manhood he had acquired 2,000 acres of land and many cattle. Then the younger girls in the neighborhood began to attract him and soon after the wife obtained a divorce and each of the children was given a quarter-section of land and the wife a full section. Cooper came to Topeka and was married again, but this wife soon got a divorce because, she charged he would not give her enough money to support her properly.

Cooper then sought a matrimonial bureau and that industrious marriage broker was kept busy for some time until Cooper selected his present wife. Cooper asserted in court that the chief trouble he finds in securing matrimonial happiness with younger women is that they desire his money more than a home and comforb and to be an old man's darling.

CHART SHOWING LOCATION OF PALMYRA ISLAND.

Acting under instructions from the Navy Department, the cruiser West Virginia has returned to Honolulu, after having quietly visited Palmyra Island, which is claimed by Great Britain, and placed the Stars and Stripes on the disputed territory. The cruise from Honolulu has been undertaken with such secrecy that even naval officers on duty in Washington have professed ignorance of the ship's whereabouts. The visit of the American vessel to Palmyra may play an important part in any diplomatic controversy which may result from the dual claim of sovereignty of the island.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, backache, headache, or hot flashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women.

MRS. WILLIAMS.

MRS. G. H. WILLIAMS, of Lynnhaven, Va., wrote: "It is six years since my health gave way. I had female trouble and all the doctors (I employed three) said I would die. I was not able to do my work, had to hire someone all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and decided to try it. I had not taken but one bottle until I found it had done me good. I took, in all, five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my housework, and have gained fourteen pounds. I advise all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' It's the only medicine on earth."

FIGHTING PASTOR GOING TO LONDON

HAS DONE VAST WORK

Atlanta, Ga., March 1.—When Dr. Len G. Broughton, who has just declined a gift of $5,000 and a year's vacation offered by citizens, and cabled his acceptance of a London pulpit, leaves the Atlanta Baptist tabernacle to preach to the biggest congregation—that of the famous Christ church—in the world's greatest city, more than half of the people of Atlanta will feel a great loss, while many others will feel like shouting for joy.

For Dr. Broughton has many enemies as well as many friends, because he is what is known as a "live wire" and doesn't care whose head he hits when he preaches. No one in Atlanta has been more talked about for the past twenty years than this long-haired, dreamy-eyed, almost cadaverous evangelist.

He came to Atlanta from a small town in North Carolina and took the pastorate of a little church in the suburbs, which his congregation soon outgrew. Then he moved into the heart of the city not the fashionable section, but down where the poor folk live and organized the Baptist tabernacle. His followers put up a cheap wooden building, a sprawling structure which kept growing by annexes and additions until it was the biggest auditorium in Atlanta.

Center of Real Work.

For nearly fifteen years Broughton's tabernacle was the center of real religious work in the city. Now it has grown into a $200,000 brick structure in Luckie street, the most completely fitted institutional church in the south, with a $25,000 organ, and a motion picture machine to illustrate lectures. There is a service there almost every night and most of the afternoons.

There are telephones in the pulpit so invalids at home may hear the sermons and music. There are acousticons in the seats so the deaf may hear. There are a big orchestra and a big choir, and a regular financial system to handle the money—which hasn't been nearly enough to meet the bills.

But the church is only a part of Dr. Broughton's work. Long ago he established a sanitarium next door to the old tabernacle, where poor people could be given free treatment. It has grown into a big building of brick and stone and is always overflowing with patients.

He organized, a few months ago, the first hospital exclusively for pellagra sufferers ever built, because the city hospital refused to accept such cases. He organized a working girls' home to keep girls off the streets and out of disreputable places, and enable them to live on their meager wages.

He has preached twice a Sunday whenever in Atlanta and has traveled tens of thousands of miles on evangelistic missions.

Vacations in England.

For several summers he has spent his vacations in England, and out of these has grown a bond of friendship between the Atlanta minister and the Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, one of the greatest Bible students of the world, whose London temple is world famous.

Dr. Broughton brought Campbell Morgan to Atlanta for three visits, as principal speaker at the Bible conference, which is given every spring at the tabernacle. Dr. Morgan came last spring, as he had promised, though he had to turn down a $10,000 lecture tour to make the trip. He came direct from the steamer in New York to Atlanta and went home after his ten-day visit without stopping on the way, though New York city offered him $5,000 for his church if he would preach one sermon there.

And later in the summer, when Dr. Broughton visited London, he filled the pulpit of Christ church, almost undenominational, but leaning toward the Baptist faith, the greatest congregation in England.

Asked to Come Back.

When he came home a cablegram followed him, calling him to the pastorate of the church. His congregation refused to let him go, and he decided to stay in Atlanta. Now a second call has come, and he has tendered his resignation and cabled his acceptance to London.

Dr. Broughton explained his reasons for wishing a change. His health has been so broken by the strain of work in Atlanta, and his inability to rest while here, that he felt it impossible to continue.

"I have been running on my nerve, using up my vitality," he told his flock. "In London I need only preach. I will have assistants for other work. I will have a summer vacation in Switzerland each year and a month off in March to come to Atlanta for the Bible conference. And I will come every year. You may be sure of that."

Dr. Broughton has been accused of being a sensationalist. He admits it. He has been accused of seeking publicity. He prides himself on that, and furthermore says he is willing to pay for it. The tabernacle was the first church in Atlanta to use regular "display" advertisements, and it runs them now as regularly as the theaters, and doesn't ask any discounts from regular theatrical rates. Dr. Broughton told a gathering of ministers one day that he had been made by the newspapers, or at least they had helped a lot, and that he wouldn't any more try to do without them than without a church building.

Fights Gambling Houses.

For fifteen years he has been roasting the sinners in and around Atlanta with vigor and enthusiasm. He dips into city or state politics when it pleases him, and calls names right out in meeting. He has chased the gambling houses out of the city and moved the tenderloin district to a more remote section. He has turned the scale in more than one election in Georgia. Whenever he has seen an evil he has turned loose his guns on it and has never quit until victorious. The "crooks" hate him but respect him. The silk stocking element turns up its nose at Broughton and his work, but it reads his sermons in the papers. Orthodox ministers hold up their hands in horror at some of his methods, and none of them agrees with his theology, but all admit that he is doing a great work and reaching people who otherwise would never enter another church.

Dr. Broughton explodes most of his fireworks in brief "preludes" to his sermons on Sunday nights. The pastor nearly always advertises that he will take up a certain subject, and this packs the house. He fulfills his promise in ten minutes and then preaches "straight gospel" for an hour.

"I draw them here for a sensation and don't let them get away without the gospel," he says.

Face of an Ascetic.

His face is that of an ascetic; his blue eyes dreamy yet piercing at times. His clothes hang upon his spare shoulders in folds and wrinkles. When he posed for a photograph last March, with Dr. Campbell Morgan, the photographers believed they had snapped on one plate the two most ungainly men in the world.

With the leaving of Dr. Broughton Atlanta will have a loss impossible to fill. There are perhaps greater preachers, more gifted orators, more orthodox expounders of the Bible. But no one who has watched the progress of the tabernacle will believe that any other man can keep it up to the mark he has set for fifteen years.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle today and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., March 1. — Excitement over higher cables and small Argentine shipments, jerked prices upward today in wheat. May started at $1.02¾ to $1.03 and rose rapidly to $1.03⅝.

Crop damage reports from Missouri and Kansas and improved flour business at Minneapolis helped to a still further advance. The close was strong with May wheat at $1.03⅞@1.04, a net gain of 1¾@1¾c over last night.

Lively trading in corn had a decidedly bullish effect. May opened at 69⅝c to 69⅞c, and climbed to 70⅜c.

Good cash demand led to an additional gain. The close was firm at 70½@70⅝c for May corn, 1½@1¾c above the figures of twenty-four hours before.

In the oats pit, scantiness of offerings and the firmness of other grain gave the market a firm tone. May started at 52⅞c to 53⅜c and ascended to 53¼c.

Provisions displayed a little weakness at first, owing to heavy receipts of hogs, but the buying fever in grain acted as more than an offset later. Initial sales were 2½c lower to 12½c up, with May delivery $15.32½ for pork, $9.27½ for lard and $8.62½ for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, March 1.—The specialties were the principal features at the opening of the stock market today. General Electric, American Sugar and Sears Roebuck made early gains of half a point to a point. Union Pacific and United States Steel common, both of which sold ex-dividend, made small fractional gains. Reading was the weakest.

Business expanded into various properties that usually do not figure prominently in the dealings. Favorite stocks were well supported and a few issues which were heavy at the outset rallied briskly, especially Reading, which touched 155.

Further covering of shorts was induced by unconfirmed cables from London announcing an adjournment of the coal conference until next Tuesday. Material gains were restricted to the less active or more obscure issues. Losses of 2 to 4 points were made by Colorado & Southern second preferred, Westinghouse Electric first preferred, Virginia Iron, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and others of that group. Of the standard railway stocks Louisville & Nashville and Atlantic Coast Line were conspicuously strong. Bonds were steady.

The market closed strong. New York Central's rise in the last hour was coincident with the company's favorable statement of earnings for January. The Hill issues joined in the upward movement.

WHITE FRUIT HOUSE

THE STORE FOR ALL THE PEOPLE

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby."

"Oh, for goodness sake!" Such a hilarious crowd of people never left a place of amusement as the one that will come out of the Majestic tomorrow afternoon and evening after the performance of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby." The expression quoted above is one that made Dan1. F. Murphy famous, and which puts the audience in the very best humor right from the start. Earl Knapp, who not only plays the part of Napoleon to perfection, but whose expert handling of the part of Major Knott Much causes the audience to rock in laughter time and again is undoubtedly the star attraction of the play.

The performers are greeted with glee throughout the play, while all the musical numbers are encored. The stage setting of the first act is that of a nursery, while the setting of the second act is more gorgeous with its colored lights, fancy arches and lofty election light towers in the distance. Dan1. F. Murphy as the waiter, Adolph Nichol, makes a tremendous hit and his phrase, "Oh, for goodness sake," becomes excruciatingly funny. The "Schnitzelbaum Blackboard song" brings down the house, and his attempts at playing the nurse are ludicrous. Chas. A. Morgan makes an ideal Mr. Newlywed, just as the cartoon pictures him, and is an able aid to the Countess Olga Von Hatzfeldt, who captivates the ladies as Mrs. Newlywed.

Two of the musical numbers strike the fancy of any audience and they will not rest until they call the chorus out several times. "Every Baby is a Sweet Bouquet," and "Can't You See I Love You?" are the favorites.

TEMPLE THEATER

Annie Abbott, "The Little Georgia Magnet," Headliner Next Week.

Annie Abbott, "The little Georgia Magnet," headlines a great vaudeville opening at the Temple theater Monday matinee, March 4. Annie Abbott can lift twenty men, but twenty men cannot lift her. She weighs only 110 pounds, but she sticks to the floor like glue. The world's strongest men, including Sandow, Jeffries, Gotch, Hackenschmidt, have all tried to lift Annie Abbott and have failed. Miss Annie Abbott has given her remarkable performance in all parts of the world and has appeared before kings and queens and the nobility of every land. Miss Abbott has been pronounced by the world's most noted scientists and physicians one of the psychic marvels of the age, and her act is unquestionably the most interesting and mysterious before the public today.

Frank Rae and company will appear in a roaring comedy sketch, "Bottle 6-40-9." Mr. Rae is one of the cleverest comedians on the stage today and is said to be at his best in his latest effort.

Peter Lawrence and company, direct from the Majestic theater, Chicago, where they are the hit of the bill this week in their latest college skit, "The Fresh Freshman."

Allen and White are a novelty whistling duo and who were late stars of Lew Dockstader's minstrels.

Lambert and Williams in "Smiles and Songs," and the LaKelliors in a comedy novelty act entitled, "Circus Eve in Mexico," completes a great bill which will undoubtedly prove to be one of the season's best offerings.

WILL MEET TONIGHT.

The technical committe of the Civic Improvement association, with O. N. Guldlin as chairman, will meet this evening at the Commercial club to hear appointments of the various sub-committees as arranged by the chairman.

MOOSE FUND IS ABOVE $20,000

Big Tract of Land is Offered as Site for the School.

MAKE FINE PROGRESS

Success is crowning the efforts of Fort Wayne lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, in its work to raise pledges of a fund of $50,000 to secure the location of the big industrial school of the order for Fort Wayne. The total is now more than $20,000 and it is believed that within a week the full sum will have been pledged.

Committees named for that purpose have been looking at a number of desirable sites for the school, and added interest was given to their work yesterday when two land owners volunteered to sell a total of 447 acres within a radius of four miles of the city for the school purposes for $35,000. Unless a more inviting location is secured within a few days, the supreme trustees of the order will be asked to come to Fort Wayne next week and look the ground over.

The Commercial club has volunteered its aid in the effort to land the school. Decision as to the location of the school will be made by the order at its meeting in Chicago March 19.

GIRL LOST ONE YEAR; NO CLUE

Family Believes Miss Arnold Dead, Says Attorney.

WIDE SEARCH FUTILE

New York, March 1—It was one year ago that Dorothy Arnold, daughter of Francis R. Arnold, disappeared from the home of her parents in this city. The disappearance has remained a mystery to this day.

"Not one word has ever been received from Miss Arnold," said John S. Keith, Arnold's attorney. "Nor have we nor any one else who aided in the world-wide search that was made ever since been able to find a single clue as to what became of her. You may say that since the day she went away the family has never been able to get the slightest trace of Miss Arnold and they and also myself believe that she is dead, for this is the only explanation we can conceive of to account for her long absence."

Detectives Search World.

The first public announcement that Miss Arnold was missing was made at police headquarters in the city on the night of January 23 by then Second Deputy Police Commissioner William J. Flynn. In the six weeks' interval between the day that Miss Arnold went away and the public announcement of it the Pinkertons, the detectives of the New York police department and detectives in other cities of the country had searched in vain for a trace of the missing young woman.

Pictures and descriptions of Miss Arnold were sent to practically every city in the world, and it is said that every hospital, private as well as public, on this continent and in Europe, was investigated in the hope that among their patients the young woman might be found. On the theory that she was dead, morgues in American and European cities were searched and death records of hundreds of municipalities looked into.

The girl friends of the missing girl were asked to aid and some of her young men friends were questioned in the hope that a romance might have been at the bottom of the case. One of these men, George S. Griscom, jr., of Pittsburg, to whom Miss Arnold was reported engaged, was in Florence, Italy, when she disappeared and he came home to join in the search. For more than a month he directed a search from Atlantic City before he gave up the case as hopeless.
